Coat Of Ice Resulting In Collisions

Heavy Snows Keep Numerous Schools Closed

By The Associated Press
Ice coated streets and highways from the Great Lakes area into New England Friday resulted in scores of collisions and stalled vehicles. And, snow-clogged roads in Colorado kept 30 schools closed.

At least two persons were killed as a result of the ice-slicked roads in the Northeast.

In Connecticut, New York and New Jersey freezing rain glazed the highways and slowed traffic to a crawl. Some schools were forced to close. On turnpike bridges near Newark, N.J., alone about 30 vehicles were involved in smashups in a two-hour period.

MILD
Temperatures were on the mild side, but some snow mixed with freezing rain was in prospect for central and southern New Hampshire and Vermont.

Warnings of hazardous driving were issued for the entire interior area of the southern northeastern section of the nation.

More snow was expected by night in a band stretching from the southern Great Lakes region into northern and western New York. The forecasters said the rain during the night may not freeze along the southern coast of New England.

In the Midwest, Milwaukee reported 6 inches and Muskegon, Mich., 5 inches early Friday.

Near Hazel Green, Wis., the St. Norbert College basketball team spent a cold six hours in a bus stalled by a sneak snowstorm. The bus was on the way to Dubuque, Iowa, from Whitewater, Wis.

Traffic was halted at Janesville.

Plane Wreckage Is Found Near Here In Swamp

An 83-year-old Monroe trapper, A. M. Moore, Friday said he discovered wreckage of an airplane about eight miles east of the Twin Cities in Lafourche Swamp.

According to Moore's grandson, Cleo Moore of Monroe, his grandfather was running a trap line in the area and came up on the wreckage.

Moore said he and his grandfather have several traps in the area, which he described as God's country.

APPEARANCE

Moore said his grandfather reported that the plane looked as if it had been there for sometime, "maybe more than a year, maybe less than a year."

Moore said the discovery was reported to the Federal Aviation Agency at Selman Field. State Police reported they had also been notified.

Officials reported no investigation of the crash scene was made yesterday. Moore said last night he was willing to head a party to the area today.

Moore said his grandfather was riding a horse when he came up on the wreckage which is located

Appeal Planned On Court Rule

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Atty. Gen. Jack Gremlion of Louisiana plans to appeal a federal court order to restore 1,377 Negroes to vote rolls in Washington Parish.

The New Orleans States-Item, a dispatch from Washington, reported Friday Gremlion said Asst. Atty. Gen. George Ponder would take the action in the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals at New Orleans.

U.S. Dist. Judge J. Skelly Wright issued the order last Monday, contending there was evidence of discrimination since only a handful of white voters had been removed from Washington Parish registration lists in comparison to the hundreds of Negroes.

Gremlion said the case raises a clear issue of the constitutionality of the U.S. Civil Rights Act under which the Justice Department brought suit against the parish registrar, the parish Citizens Council and four council members.

ACCUSED OF BEING 'FENCES' Police Squads Arrest Officers

CHICAGO (UPI) — Flying police squads operating under sealed orders arrested eight brother officers in their homes Friday and accused them of being fences for a gang of burglars.

Authorities said the arrests and confiscation of loot might mark the beginning of one of the greatest scandals in Chicago police history.

First Assistant State's Attorney Frank Ferlic said a "goodly" number of other policemen were believed involved. It was reported the number might be as high as 40 officers.

British Headlines Protest Cruelty

LONDON (AP)—British headlines screamed in protest Friday against what the papers called the cruelty inflicted on old horses sent from Ireland to France for slaughter.

"Savage, bloody cruelty," said a front-page banner in the tabloid Daily Mirror of a trade that Irish horse dealers have defended as legitimate.

The rest of the page was taken up by two photographs of weak and dying horses being dragged from railroad cars Thursday in Paris' Batignolle freight yard. They were consigned to slaughter for both human and animal food. British newspapers started investigating the horse trade between Ireland and the Continent as a result of one incident in a European storm that ravaged shipping and killed 109 persons last month.

This was the death at sea of 20 broken-down horses, washed overboard from an Irish freighter. Their legs still lashed together, their bodies floated onto a Welsh beach.

Irish dealers reacted angrily to inquiries. Some newsmen and photographers were manhandled in their attempts to learn details of the trade. A spokesman for the dealers declared: "This is our livelihood and a legitimate one."

The business of slaughtering old horses, and younger scrub stock, is of course, nothing new. Many go into dog food cans in the United States. Some Europeans eat horseflesh regularly, regarding it as standard table fare. The British objections center not on that but on the treatment of the

More People Hold Jobs Than Before

WASHINGTON (AP)—With the steel strike ended, more Americans held jobs last month than in any previous December.

The Labor Department said Friday employment climbed by 39,000 to a record 65,699,000 for the month as workers, furloughed because of the 116-day steel strike, flocked back to factories and other plants.

The jobless roster decreased by 93,000 last month to a total of 3,777,000. Taking seasonal factors into account, the ratio of unemployed to the total work force fell from 5.6 per cent in November to 5.2 per cent in December.

TREND

These developments ran against the usual trend in December—normally employment goes down by about 700,000 and unemployment rises by about 100,000 in that final month of the year.

Recovery from the steel strike had other effects on the nation's workers—chiefly, more overtime and fatter paychecks as industries drove to regain lost ground.

A Labor Department official forecast continued improvement in the job situation as more laid off workers are recalled. Seymour Wolfbein, deputy assistant secretary of labor, said about 650,000 persons—not counting the 500,000 strikers—were forced to the sidelines at one time or another because of the steel shutdown whose effects spread far and wide.

A federal court order halted the strike in early November and a renewed walkout was averted by a contract settlement Jan. 4.

The job pickup started slowly in the early stages of the court-ordered steel truce. But in December it was going ahead under a full head of steam.

By mid-December, when the government took its monthly job sample, about 150,000 auto work-

Disarmament Strategy To Be Mapped

U.S. Delegates, Western Allies To Meet Soon

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Representatives of the United States and four Western Allies will meet here Monday to start mapping strategy for disarmament talks with Russia opening March 15, it was learned Friday.

It also was understood that President Eisenhower has decided to name New York lawyer "Fredrick M. Eaton, 54, general counsel for the old War Production Board, as chief American negotiator at the Paris conference with the Reds.

Sitting in on Monday's meeting will be the ambassadors of Britain, France, Canada and Italy and Secretary of State Christian A. Herter's special assistant on disarmament, Philip J. Farley.

EXPERTS

They will lay down the guidelines for technical disarmament experts of the five countries who will begin meeting here Jan. 25. Finally, at Paris, Allied negotiators will sit across the table from representatives of Russia, Poland, Bulgaria, Romania and Czechoslovakia.

It will be the first time the West has negotiated with Communist nations on a basis of numerical equality. The conference was agreed to at the Big Four foreign ministers conference in Geneva last July.

The Western preparations took on added urgency in the wake of Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's announcement Thursday that Russian nuclear-missile might have reached the point where he can cut Soviet military manpower by one-third, or 1,200,000 men.

The Western aim is to prepare a plan for ending the global arms race by reducing military manpower and weapons under a fool-proof system of control and inspection. This country pointed out Thursday that only such a system would show whether Russia actually cuts its manpower.

The United States hopes to have ready for the Jan. 25 technical meeting a revised disarmament

Teen Claims He Is 'Fuehrer' Of Youth Gang

DETROIT (AP) — A 14-year-old boy who said he was the "fuehrer" of a teen-age club of Nazis told police Friday he and a young companion painted swastikas on a public school.

The boy also said he smashed a school window and left a note reading: "Heil Hitler—the Third Reich."

Police confiscated from the boy three swastika emblems; two flags, one bearing a swastika, and the other an eagle; two brown shirts and one black one, all bearing German insignia; homemade rubber stamps of Nazi emblems; three looseleaf notebooks containing clippings, pictures and notations about the Nazis, and 25 paperback books about Germany.

The boy, whose name was withheld is the son of a University of Detroit English teacher. His mother is a nurse.

He told police he headed a loosely knit club which an older brother, now with the U.S. armed forces in Germany, organized among neighborhood boys four years ago.

The boy said he took over as "fuehrer" 18 months ago when his brother went into service. He said that at one time or another several boys from his school attended the meetings but at present there are only two members beside himself.

Police said one of the club members, the 13-year-old son of a Detroit police sergeant, helped paint the swastikas and a German eagle on the school. The 14-

Hearing Slated For La. Youth

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—An extradition hearing was ordered Friday for 15-year-old Frank N. Chissey, wanted for the slaying of a teenage friend in Louisiana. Earl Long that the boy be returned to stand trial.

Mystery Man Discloses Tip

NEW YORK (UPI) — A mysterious stranger gave National Airlines the tip that led investigators to suspect heavily insured Julian Andrew Frank might have sabotaged an airliner in which he and 33 other passengers were killed, it was disclosed Friday.

Frank, 32-year-old attorney who had insured himself for $887,500, at the same time was revealed to have been under investigation for financial manipulations totaling possibly more than one million dollars.

Sen. Clair Engle (D - Calif.) member of the Senate aviation subcommittee, said in Washington that he believed a bomb caused the crash of the airliner.

EXPLOSION

Asked if closed-door Civil Aeronautics Board testimony had definitely established this, he replied: "No, but what else can one conclude? The side of the plane was pushed out by a tremendous explosion. It couldn't have been anything else."

A spokesman for the airlines said that a well-dressed man about 60 years old approached J. P. Reilly, National station manager, at Idlewild Airport, about 2 p.m. last Sunday and said he had "some information about that flight that went down."

Reilly quoted the man as saying: "This fellow Julian Frank, had about $500,000 worth of insurance and then took out $200,000 more."

The stranger said Frank had told him recently that he "would not last long" and that he (Frank) was betting against his return on the National flight.

The man turned as if to go, then added: "It's too bad because he had such a nice wife."

With that, the stranger walked away and vanished in the crowd. Reilly reported the conversation to his superiors. They notified Port of New York Authority detectives, who in turn reported it to the FBI.

There were indications the FBI began its investigation of the crash on the basis of a tip from the airline.

The conversation, of about one-

2 Lawsuits Filed Against Nominee

By DALLAS' ROPER
State Editor

ST. JOSEPH — Two lawsuits were filed in court here yesterday afternoon against Howard M. Jones, democratic nominee for senate from the district, seeking annulment of election.

The suits were filed in behalf of incumbent Brenham C. Crothers, who was defeated in the runoff election January 9, and W. E. Persons, unsuccessful candidate for the post in the first primary December 5.

Earlier in the day at a meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee for the 32nd Senatorial District, at Tallulah Crothers raised objections to the election of Jones on the grounds that he was a convicted felon and did not receive pardon and restoration of citizenship in time to comply with legal requirements to vote or seek public office.

DEBATE

Following a heated debate over a resolution the committee certified Jones as democratic nominee for the district's senate post.

At that time Crothers promised a fight in both the courts and on the floor of the Senate.

The suits were filed, official sources said, around 3 p.m. yesterday and Sheriff Elliott Coleman and a deputy went to the Jones home three miles out of St. Joseph near Lake Bruin, a few minutes later to serve notice of the action.

According to official sources state troopers stationed at the Jones home for purposes of "protective custody" refused to let the sheriff and his deputy enter house, but said they would serve the papers.

Later, it was reported, one of the state troopers signed an affidavit stating that he had made the service.

DRAWS REBUKE

Judge Goads Jury To Hurry Verdict

LONDON (AP)—A British judge was rebuked by the Court of Criminal Appeal for goading a hesitant jury to hurry up with its verdict because he wanted to catch a train.

The court ruled Judge Sir Wintlingham Stable had done "a disservice to the cause of justice" by ordering the Jurymen to deliver a verdict within 10 minutes or be locked up for the night.

The hurry-up incident, at Nottingham Assizes last November, created a furor in press and Parliament. Judge Stable, 72, had spent three days trying the three men on charges of stealing television sets from a truck. On the third day, Stable complained that his travel plans had been upset by the case dragging on.

And, after the jury had spent a couple of hours wrestling with the verdict, Stable called them back to court, told them not to worry overmuch about legal quibbles and ordered them to make a decision within 10 minutes or be locked up until 11:45 a.m. next day.

Appeal Court Judge Sir James Cassels ruled that a cardinal principle of British criminal law is that jurors should deliberate in complete freedom, unfettered by promises or intimidation.

"They still stand between the Crown and the subject and they are still one of the main defenses of personal liberty," he said.

"It may well be that the judge was understandably irritated by their inconvenient slowness in reaching a verdict in which he thought was a plain straightforward case."

"But juries do at times take much longer than a judge thinks necessary. After all there are 12

Same Type As That Of Dr. Mcmillan

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Police said Friday fresh human blood of the same type as Dr. Margaret Rosamond McMillan had been found in the auto owned by Dr. George H. Mickey, internationally known scientist charged with murder in her death.

Dist. Atty. J. St. Clair Favrot also told a news conference that Mickey, who has been suspended from his post as dean of the Louisiana State University graduate school here, "was definitely not at home all Saturday night" when Dr. McMillan was killed by 13 savage blows on the head.

Dr. Mickey, widely known for his work in genetics (science of heredity), had been friends for many years with the 39-year-old woman, who taught at LSU's New Orleans branch.

STATEMENT

Sheriff Bryan Clemmons and Favrot said in a joint statement that "laboratory examination of Dr. Mickey's automobile revealed spots of fresh human blood of the same type as that of the deceased."

The statement further said: "Based on the investigation, the warrant was issued so the matter could be put before the grand jury. We would have been derelict in our duties had we not taken the course of action followed in this matter."

Meanwhile, Louisiana State University suspended Dr. Mickey as dean of its graduate school because "the district attorney of East Baton Rouge Parish has advised that a charge of murder has been filed" against him.

Mickey, 49, broke down and cried in jail Friday. It was the first time in the six-day investigation that Mickey lost control of his emotions.

His wife and son, Don, 19, and the family minister, the Rev. William E. Trice, visited Mickey for the first time since his arrest. They stayed only a few minutes and officers said Mickey was composed during the visit.

The beating victim was a biology professor at LSU in New Orleans, a branch of the university. Her body was found Sunday morning on a rural road near the Mississippi River about six miles

Joseph the defendant must appear in court here at 10 a.m. on the fifth day following date of service of the papers to Jones.

Court records indicate that Jones served four months of a sentence in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., and was paroled. He was pardoned, according to documents presented by Crothers, last July. The pardon was signed by Acting Gov. Letha Frazier while Gov. Earl K. Long was out of the state.

Crothers at the committee session claimed that the laws of the state prohibit a person in this status from registering to vote or to seek public office. Crothers said that the law says a person must be a resident and citizen for one year to register to vote and for five years to qualify to run for the state senate.

A resolution was offered to the committee seeking to certify Jones as nominee, but a member of the committee, W. E. Persons, also a candidate for the senate seat, but defeated in the first primary, submitted a substitute resolution asking that the committee merely promulgate the returns and not certify Jones.

Debate on the substitute motion raged hot and heavy for a few minutes with Persons, a former state senator, and Sheriff Elliott Coleman of St. Joseph, voting for the substitute motion. The other two members of the committee, Captain Jack Wyle of Lake Providence and Henry Sevier of Tallulah, voted against the resolution. The two-to-two tie killed the substitute.

CONSIDERED

Then the committee considered the original motion and after a period of indecision, the motion to certify Jones to the secretary as the nominee, was passed. Coleman first voted "no," but then changed his vote and the motion carried.

Those who opposed the substitute motion, which said that Jones had "perpetrated a fraud" against the committee, said that such a resolution would "accomplish nothing" and that the committee had no jurisdiction in the matter.

Persons said that the committee should pass the resolution to "rectify its error" in certifying Jones' candidacy. He said, as his resolution alleged, that the committee should not have allowed Jones to enter the race for senator. Persons was attending his first meeting of the committee. He was elected in the Democratic primary.

Jones, not present at the meeting himself, was represented by a Lake Charles attorney, William R. Tete. Tete told the committee, after hearing the substitute resolution, that such a resolution, worded as it was, could bring "serious consequences" if it were adopted by the committee. He hinted that a suit for defamation might be forthcoming.

Sen. Crothers countered with his own declaration that suit was his own declaration that suit was definitely forthcoming from his camp. He said that he would seek to stop Jones' succession to the senate seat and would seek to have him unseated by the senate itself, if the courts did not stop it.

Crothers told the committee that the resolution offered by Persons was "mild" compared to the one that he "would have preferred to have had offered."

Some members of the committee revealed, in conversation among themselves that they had contacted Leander Perez, St. Bernard and Plaquemines Parish District Attorney, and that he had advised them that they did not have jurisdiction to stop certification of Jones.

The committee, after all the arguments had been exhausted, voted to certify that Jones, by virtue of the ballots cast for him, should be the Democratic party nominee. The vote which was certified was 3,177 for Jones and 4,883 for Crothers.

After the meeting, Crothers conferred with his attorneys and announced to the press that he and the lawyers were enroute to St. Joseph, parish seat of Tensas Parish where Jones lives, to file a civil suit against him.

Sen. Crothers said that the suit would seek to have the election held last Saturday set aside and the results voided. He will ask that a new primary be held. And, he promised not to stop his legal fight short of the Supreme Court. Jones was unavailable for comment.

The committee, prior to taking up the resolutions, elected Sevier chairman and re-appointed Ira Baxter of Tallulah to be secretary-treasurer of the body. Baxter is not an elected member of the committee.

about three miles off U. S. Highway 80, and about one-fourth to one-half mile from the Lafourche Canal.

TIMBER AREA

He said the craft, which his grandfather described as being white and blue, had plowed into a heavily timbered area, leaving about 400 feet of broken trees and branches in its path.

He said the plane was located between two pipe lines which are about one mile apart.

Moore said his grandfather told him that the horse he was riding balked at staying around the wreckage, and that he rode out of the woods to report the incident.

The elderly man reported that he was attracted to the wreckage when the sunshine reflected off one of the wings which was sticking up in the air.

He reported one of the wings was sticking in the ground, and the other was sticking up in the air.

He said he saw no sign of bodies or skeletons.

The man said he believed it was a single engine craft.

He said the engine was located about 50 feet from the main section of the plane.

Moore theorized that the plane may be one reported down in that area about a year ago, which was never discovered.

south of the LSU campus south of Baton Rouge.

The death weapon has not been found but officers believe it might be a tire iron.

They said they learned Dr. McMillan told neighbors last Saturday that she had a date for that night.

Coroner Chester A. Williams Jr. issued a report in which he said that "due to the severity and brutality, the murderer must have an unusual personality."

Williams said death came at approximately 12:45 a.m. Sunday.

The body was found about 6:30 a.m. Sunday by road workers going down the path.

Dist. Atty. J. St. Clair Favrot said today Mickey took a lie detector test Wednesday. He said he might get the results of the test today but "I will make no statement on the results."

He added that results of the test was not admissible evidence in court.

The next session of the grand jury is scheduled Feb. 16 and Favrot said "I haven't had much opportunity to give (a special session) much thought."

Favrot said he thought the case would come to trial in "two or three months."

Defense Atty. Robert L. Kleinpeter said he thought the murder trial would start in March.

Mickey, affable and brilliant dean of the LSU graduate school, was jailed after several days of questioning.

Chief Criminal Deputy J. B. Kling Jr. said an investigation "uncovered certain evidence which was presented to the district attorney, who, reviewing the evidence, issued the warrant for Mickey H. Mickey."

Mickey is president of a national honorary society for biologists, has lectured at international genetics conferences and has written extensive technical articles.

Mickey is chairman of the LSU department of zoology, physiology and entomology.

Drs. Mickey and McMillan met at Northwestern University, near Chicago, in 1955. He was a member of the faculty and she was studying for a doctorate. Mickey directed work she did in writing the thesis required to win her doctorate.

Dr. McMillan carried Mickey's picture in her wallet, along with snapshots of her cats and a card asking that Mickey be notified in case of emergency.

Besides teaching at the New Orleans branch of the university, she had spent a few evenings a month in the laboratories here studying the possibilities of using algae in space capsules.

ers had been recalled. And Wolf-bein said this still is going on.

Otherwise, the Labor Department reported a normal December rise in workers hired for temporary pre-Christmas jobs selling and delivering mail. As usual, too, outdoor work faded with the onset of winter weather.

Stacked against the situation a year ago, there were 1,726,000 more persons at work and 531,000 fewer out of work in December.

Projecting the December job figures, Wolfbein spoke of a possible four million unemployed this month and next, and a drop back to 3½ million idle in the spring.

A tip led police to the boys. The third club member was not identified immediately.

The two boys in custody were questioned about 10 other incidents in which anti-Semitic and Nazi slogans were scrawled on public buildings but denied having anything to do with them.

The 14-year-old said he broke the school window and planted the note because he was bored. He said the idea of painting the swastikas came to him after he heard about many other similar incidents around the world.

"I got excited and wanted to paint one," he said.

Police quoted the boy as saying that club meetings were held in members' homes and that while there was a lot of heel-clicking and the Nazi salute was given, "actually we mostly build model airplanes."

police stations throughout the city.

The raiding teams consisted of a police captain, a lieutenant, and a member of the special state's attorney's police. They received sealed orders from Ferlic at the hotel, containing the name and address of the policemen to be arrested, with orders not to open the envelopes until they were in their cars.

Ferlic said the eight policemen were implicated by an accused burglar, Richard Morrison, who is awaiting trial.

Morrison, trying to make a deal for a lighter sentence, offered to "break the town wide open," police said. He then named the eight policemen and even helped identify the loot following Friday's pre-dawn raids.

Ferlic said Morrison charged the policemen "helped him either load or unload the stolen merchandise from several stores he prowled in a period lasting for more than one year."

All eight policemen had served together at the Summerdale Station on the city's West Side and five were still assigned there. They ranged from rookies to veterans of almost 20 years' service on the force.

The policemen were identified as Peter Beettink, 30, Allan Brinn, 30, Henry P. Mullea, 45, Alan Clements, 29, Alex Karras, 27, his brother, Sol, 26, Frank Ferraci, 43, and Pat Groark Jr., 28.

Mystery Man Discloses Tip

minute duration, took place five days after the crash of the National plane in North Carolina. The disclosures that Frank had been heavily insured and the possibility of sabotage were first made public by congressmen Thursday.

At the time of his death, Frank was being investigated in an alleged charity fund drive swindle, in the operation of a "phantom" firm that bilked clients out of large fees, and in the alleged embezzlement of $20,000 from a law client.

While Frank's complex financial dealings were being disclosed, his blonde widow, Janet, an attractive former model, insisted that her husband met death accidentally.

"I will never believe the insinuations they are making about him," she said.

If his death is proved to be a suicide, Mrs. Frank would receive no more than $10,000 from the huge insurance policies taken out by her husband in the nine months preceding the fatal plane flight.

An attorney, who asked that his name be withheld, said Frank had talked of narrow brushes with death during earlier air travels.

"If I die in an airplane crash, my wife will be the richest woman in the world," he quoted Frank as saying.

In connection with the alleged $20,000 embezzlement from a client, Frank was facing action by the New York Bar Association that could have resulted in his disbarment. Frank had sued the client for a $13,000 legal fee. The embezzlement charge arose in a counter-suit filed by the client.

Dist. Atty. Frank Hogan identified the "phantom" firm that Frank had established as J. & P. Factors, Inc.

Attorneys John J. Fallon, of Kansas City, and Dan P. Reardon, of St. Louis, had complained to Hogan that Frank, representing himself as president of the Factors firm, had offered to raise money for hospital fund drives in the two cities for a 1½ per cent finders fee. They said he accepted several thousands of dollars in advance and then dropped out of sight.

JEWISH-OWNED

Clothing Firm Cancels Orders

LONDON (AP) — A Jewish-owned London clothing firm Friday canceled orders for $42,000 worth of cloth from West Germany in protest against anti-Semitic outbreaks in that country. The firm, the Stanmor Clothing Co., also turned down bids to stage exhibits at the 1960 Cologne Trade Fair.

"Our company is Jewish-owned," said David Gold, managing director. "The object of our action in cancelling orders from West Germany is to protest and to bring pressure to bear on our associates in West Germany with whom we do business."

Gold said he knew of seven other London firms planning similar action.

Britain's home secretary, Richard A. Butler, told a deputation of British Jewish leaders meantime that he strongly condemned current outbreaks of anti-Semitism in Britain. He said he largely attributed the swastika painting and outbreak of anti-Jewish slogans to "irresponsible hooligans."

In Berlin, a magistrate freed three men brought before him Thursday by West Berlin police who said they found neo-Nazi propaganda in the homes of the trio. A police spokesman said he was surprised by the magistrate's decision.

Another West Berlin court sentenced a 51-year-old man to six months in jail for making an anti-Jewish remark last summer.

Other authorities in Berlin announced that one of 16 youths arrested during a Nazi-style torchlight parade in West Berlin Jan. 2 was a Communist agent from East Berlin. They gave no details except to say the youth was employed by Communist East Germany's Ministry for State Security.

In Bonn, Benjamin R. Epstein, director of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, and Nathan S. Belth, director of public relations for the Jewish fraternal order, conferred with Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano about the rash of anti-Semitic incidents.

The two organization officials later issued a statement saying democracy in West Germany will fail unless the education system is revised to provide citizenship teaching. They said they had recommended such a revision to Von Brentano.

The government of the Saar, youngest West German federal state, banned public meetings of the extreme rightist German Reich party scheduled for the weekend. Interior Minister Kurt Conrad said the action was taken under a law providing for the banning of meetings if the organizers can give no guarantee "that unlawful statements can be avoided."

In Stockholm, police said two boys, aged 15 and 17, were responsible for recent anti-Jewish incidents in that capital. They said the two admitted painting swastikas and slogans on walls.

Police said the two "did it purely for sensational reasons" and were not politically influenced.

LSU Case Recalls One Of 1925

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The slaying of a Louisiana State University woman professor recalled another brutal killing here 35 years ago.

Sheriff's deputies arrested on murder charges yesterday the brilliant Dr. George H. Mickey, 49, in the weekend death of Dr. Margaret McMillan, an unmarried biology professor.

Back during the days of the famous "man-from-monkey" controversy in the Tennessee Scopes trial, an LSU professor, Oscar B. Turner, was found dying in a dark hallway in the agronomy building. His head was mutilated with 10 hatchet wounds.

Two hours later the professor died, and the baffling case never was solved.

In confused hours following his death, a sort of terror seized the Capital city. No one knew where the unknown killer might strike next. And "Who else but a maniac" would be involved?

A coroner's jury took seven sessions and 10 days to wade through a morass of fact.

To those who knew Turner, 56, a bachelor, quiet-mannered, retiring, apparently well liked by his students, he seemed an unlikely person for the sensational role he played.

There were police theories that the killer had disposed of the professor to fall heir to his teaching position, or to inherit his personal estate, or that he was a victim of "oriental revenge."

There were three mystery automobiles, a mystery woman, at least two secret agents.

He also was a native of Illinois. Later it was learned he was worth $100,000.

Psychologists came forward to give the thought that the crime was "typical of those usually committed by the abnormal or subnormal mind."

The university president's Negro chauffeur was rounded up when it was learned Turner once had reprimanded him for failing to properly clean his office.

There was a Baton Rouge woman whom Turner had loaned some money.

But apparently the only woman in his life was an acquaintance of his college days. She had departed for India as a missionary 30 years earlier.

FTC Charges 4 More Firms With 'Payola'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission charged four more record firms Friday with giving "payola" to disc jockeys to plug their records on the air.

It issued complaints charging the companies with giving undercover payoffs to the platter spinners to "expose" certain records. The complaints said some records were played as often as 6 to 10 times a day.

The new accusation brought to 27 the payola complaints issued by the commission since Dec. 3.

COMPLAINTS
Complaints still are pending against all but one, Radio Corporation of America. RCA signed a consent order in which it agreed not to give payola—without admitting that it ever had done so. The FTC said London Records, Inc., New York City, had replied to its complaint but that the issue was still not settled.

The commission said London Records admitted it "has directly and indirectly given valuable consideration to disc jockeys," but denied any "illegality" in such payments. The commission said the firm denied "each and every allegation."

The new complaints were issued against:

—United Telefilm Records, Inc. and Morton Craft, its president, a New York City record manufacturer.

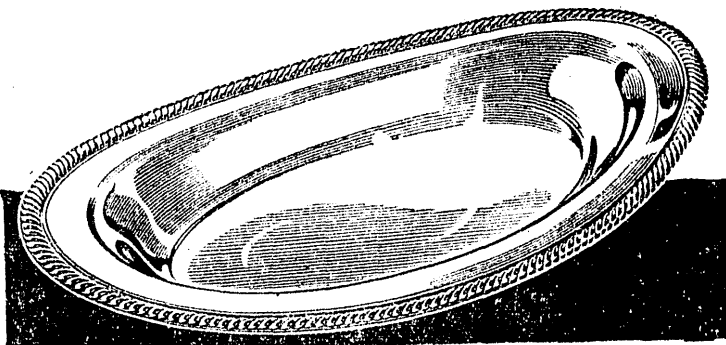

—M.S. Distributing Co. and Milton T. Salstone and M.T. McDermott, president and vice president, an independent Chicago Distributor.

Anti-Nazi Rallies

Two extremely unfortunate things are occurring in West Germany. One cannot be too highly condemned and the other is against the best democratic interest of the country, as similar action would be in other countries, including the United States.

A most deplorable situation is that in which members of some gangs, apparently remnants of old Nazi groups or newly-aspiring organizations have undertaken race-hatred and anti-Jewish campaigns and propaganda. The action is reminiscent of the days of German dictator Adolf Hitler.

The other unfortunate thing is an attempt to pass special laws aimed at certain groups, instead of using laws already applicable to those committing certain crimes.

These laws might be compared to federal anti-lynching laws in the United States. We already have laws providing the death penalty for those guilty of murder, and lynching comes under that classification. Therefore, there is no necessity for anti-lynching laws because adequate punishment is provided under laws now existing and there is no need of duplication.

More than 35,000 anti-Nazi paraded in Berlin recently, denouncing the current wave of anti-Jewish vandalism and demanding punishment of Nazi sympathizers. Gathered at a monument to millions who died in Nazi concentration camps, the demonstrators heard West Berlin Interior Department Chief Joachim Lipschitz promise a relentless campaign against Nazism and those trying to revive it by desecrating buildings with "Jew, Go Home" slogans and swastikas.

West Berliners were dealing severely with anyone found stirring up racial animosity or using the hate campaign to foster their own ends.

The protest march in Berlin by anti-Nazis was protected by police and 120 young sergeants-at-arms who had been alerted to expect possible attempts by neo-Nazis to break it up.

Our Good Fortunes

American citizens are often prone to moan over some of the things that constitute our great good fortunes. Among the things with which this country is blessed are huge crops surpluses and vast acreages of unused land. Yet these things are often deplored.

The Pacific coast area convention of soil conservation districts was held recently in Portland, Ore. and similar conventions have been held in other sections of the country, including our own.

Representatives of 403 farm-er conservation districts from five western states, Hawaii and Alaska, attended the Portland convention.

The meeting caused the Oregon Journal to say:

"Some people may wonder why our soil conservationists are so concerned over better land and water uses and increased production in these days of agricultural surpluses, but they will better understand the pressing nature of the conservation problem when they realize that agricultural planning and future goals must be geared to an estimated United States population of 230 million people by 1975 and 370 million by the year 2010. And this must be done in an era when the competition for land and water now available for farming becomes constantly keener as increasing demands are made for land for industrial, urban and recreational uses."

We deplore, and justly so, the huge sums spent by the federal government on farm surpluses, but these surpluses, no matter what the government policy of the future may be, constitute a tempo-

The anti-Nazi march and the protection of police to guarantee the right of these protestants to march peacefully were proper and commendable. The campaign against hate is praiseworthy.

There is one point, however, at which the line should be drawn. That is that no legislation should be enacted against any particular group. Whatever laws are made to curb the activities of any group should apply equally to all groups and persons and the punishment for all should be commensurate.

This can be illustrated by laws in the United States and the constitutional guarantees. There should be no specific laws against any political party in the United States or any other country, even though those parties might be Communist or Nazi, so long as there is no action or specified purpose on the part of those parties to violate laws made to apply to everyone.

All laws should apply equally to every segment of society and should be drawn so that their violation will bring punishment, no matter who the violator might be.

The point is that any laws that are to be enacted should apply to race-haters and party haters of every classification, race and group. If it made illegal to post pro-Nazi signs it should be illegal in the same way to post anti-Nazi signs. In reality, in cases of this kind, about the only laws that should be made to apply are those against defacing property, either private or public, and against inciting to riot. In applying the laws against defacement, the punishment should be the same as for any other kind of defacement.

This country and other countries have the right only to pass laws against the crimes that may be committed by individuals, parties or groups (with the same laws applying to everyone) and not against the parties or groups themselves.

If we were to admit the right to outlaw political parties we might some day find the Democratic party outlawing the Republican party in the United States, or vice versa.

rary problem. The inexorable pressure of population growth will see to that.

There may come a time when our crop production just about equals the demand but when that time comes we will be treading on dangerous ground for we will be approaching a time when the production is not enough. Indeed, the problem of the future may be one of shortages unless every care is given to the preservation and betterment of our acreage of irreplaceable soil.

As far as land is concerned, we are still immensely wealthy in some sections of the United States. Because much of our land is unused in such states as lush Louisiana, incomparable Texas, Arkansas, Mississippi, other southern states and some western and northwestern states, we should rejoice, instead of complaining, because these extra acres will guarantee that this country will be a land of plenty for the next half-century if proper methods are used.

Even our exploding population will not overtake our production potential during this century if we continue our development at the rate it has proceeded thus far in the 20th century.

Luckily, we have both the knowledge and the instruments for this. The science of conservation has made enormous strides in recent years. Modern farm equipment, from the tractor on, and agricultural and conservation agents, with their constructive experiments, make advanced conservation techniques possible with a minimum of time and labor.

Trade War Against Reds

Guiding American Effort As Leader Of Free World
Trade Difficult And Little Understood

WASHINGTON, D.C. — "We're still the Daddy Rabbit, but..." This was the country's No. 1 trade officer speaking and he was discussing his immensely difficult and little understood task of guiding the American effort as leader of the Free World in the economic conflict with Communism.

Henry Kearns, a rugged, knowledgeable, but far from know-it-all Californian who used to sell automobiles, has come a long way in his present job from the smile-and-shoeshine tradition. The trade war against the Reds is largely a matter of not defeating ourselves or of letting the Allies do it. The economic phase of the over-all struggle is one where we are far "ahead" of Russia. We are not likely to fall behind except by serious errors of judgment or loss of patience.

This is what Secretary Kearns means by placing a large "but" behind his statement of our Free World leadership. It is true that we have long paid the fiddler in Europe and Asia, and that we are entitled to call the tune. We might, if we insisted, prevent any ally from trading with Russia and China but it would be a big mistake to demand obnoxious concessions from the Allies. Our export trade is about 5 per cent of the gross national income. In West Germany the export trade is 18 to 20 per cent of the gross, in the United Kingdom it is 20 to 25 per cent. In Japan the exports are on a steeply rising scale with no ceiling in sight as long as communism is militarily contained. It would be poor leadership policy to disturb these trends. It takes some very close-to-the-vest handling of the cards to give Russia as little trade as possible from the Allies, while getting from these same Allies as much politico-military cooperation as possible. There is also the necessity of allowing American contractors all legitimate business.

In general, Mr. Kearns tries to keep as many items as possible on the not-for-Communists list, which is put together by negotiation with the Allies. In addition, we have a special list of some 200 items, headed by chemicals and carbon black, which the United States produces in superior quality. By refusing to let these go to Russia we are effectively forcing her to use second-rate materials.

Trade between the USA and USSR remains petty for several reasons. The Russians may have as much as 12 billion dollars in gold, but they are disinclined to use it for buying U.S. goods. The Russians like to barter raw materials for manufactured goods, but we prefer to buy these same materials from our Allies. Neither side is willing to give away any advantage to the other.

Above these commercial and political considerations there is American public opinion. Except for several types of furs and one type of canned fish, there is virtually nothing in the way of peacetime goods which American businessmen could not import from Russia. But there is a definite and often-demonstrated refusal of the American public to pay money for Soviet-made products. Mail to the Commerce Department swells with protest whenever housewives discover "Made in the USSR" on the handle of a broomstick. Religious groups and Labor unions are often adamant toward what they regard as an atheistic, slave state.

This public opinion factor may be the one which could never, in our times, be resolved, even if all others were. Russian propaganda in many subtle ways has tried to hint that it is the American government which prevents the American people or American business community from doing business with the USSR. But this is grossly and maliciously untrue. The American people and many businesses would not buy Russian goods at giveaway prices.

In the postwar years, while assailing the world with planes and rockets, Russia has repeatedly fallen on her face in world trade. Secretary Kearns regards the gawky methods as symptoms of immaturity in the ways of the business world. They may also be proof that Ben Franklin was right about "Honesty is the best policy." Nearly all Russian dealings have been examples of blackmail or hornswoggling.

For example, in 1948-49, Russia tried to squeeze American steel-makers by refusing to sell us manganese. Our response was to make big purchases in India, Brazil and the Belgian Congo. Markets we would not now change at any price. Only a few years ago Russia dumped tin on the world market, broke the price, but lost her biggest customer — Malaya. The Russian breaking of the aluminum market a year or so ago, caused inconvenience in the U.S., Canada and Britain — but it was not these countries never again to rely on Russia. Not long ago the United Arab Republic sold cotton to Russia for rubles, but found that the rubles would not buy the desired Czechoslovakian machinery.

In sum, the Soviet bloc, having been militarily stymied by American arms, is aiming at world domination through trade. This is the purpose of the exchange visits, the fairs, the smiles and the peace talks. But the Communists are getting nowhere, and can get nowhere, so long as we keep a stiff policy of Free World — Beware!

Probe Of Boxing

Promises To Be One Of Most Sensational Senate Shows

A coming investigation of professional boxing promises to be one of the most sensational shows yet staged by a Senate committee.

Thousands of fight fans are likely to be enraged at learning that some contests they have avidly watched — and money they wagered — were all part of a rigged show.

Senate probes, unless their present plans are changed, in February or March, will turn their spotlight on the fight racket, long cynically accepted by many as gangster-ridden, callous, and corrupt.

The probe will be headed by Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, who rocked the nation years ago with his televised inquisition into organized crime.

Kefauver heads the Antitrust and Monopoly Subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee. This body has a long name, but an even longer reach.

Its subpoena powers will pull into the ring, when hearings begin, as motley a collection of fighters, managers, promoters, and hangers-on of the shadowy fight world as can be seen at Madison Square Garden on a championship night.

Kefauver has begun his probe already — by hiring an expert on the seamy side of the boxing business. This is John G. Bonomi, former assistant district attorney of New York County.

Bonomi, nemesis of some of New York's top fight manipulators, will serve as an assistant counsel to the Kefauver committee.

Kefauver hinted months ago that he was determined to clean up the brutal underworld of the ring. He told fellow senators that "the time has come" when the Congress should investigate promotion of professional boxing contests.

"Anyone who has followed the strange shenanigans surrounding the promotion and management of the world's heavyweight contest between Ingemar Johansen and Floyd Patterson," Kefauver said, "must of necessity have wondered exactly what happened to Mr. William Rosensohn, the promoter of this fight."

to questionable conditions. Rosensohn was allegedly forced to sign away all radio, television, and movie rights, or no fight would be staged.

The "sharp practice" nature of the conditions initiated a probe by the district attorney of New York that is still going on.

Kefauver was so incensed by these matters that he inserted news stories on them into the Congressional Record.

Professional boxing is a vast industry. It entails management and promotion, leasing or arenas, employment of advertising agencies and press agents, selling tickets, acquiring motion picture rights and their distribution here and overseas, and similar activity in connection with radio and television rights.

Gov. Edmund G. "Pat" Brown of California has said that professional boxing "smells to high heaven."

He added that if Congress "doesn't force a cleanup" he might urge abolition of fights in his state. The governor's remarks followed a report by the state attorney general on a prospective battle in San Francisco for the world's middleweight championship.

The attorney general reported a "curious relationship" between one of the fighters and the "criminal element." The relationship consisted of an arrangement whereby the fighter would pay a convicted "undercover manager" 100 per cent of his purse.

This resulted in Las Vegas gamblers immediately laying 2 to 1 that the fighter would win.

Problems Of Old

Scores Of Letters Are Received
From Frustrated Children

"Mother is a problem" -- or -- "I wish I could do something for my dad who is 79."

I receive scores of letters with these themes from doting children who are completely frustrated. They just don't know what to do for the old folks. I think you will be interested in today's letter from Mrs. B. of Indianapolis.

"Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Your columns and answers to questions always interest me, even though I, so far, have had no personal problems--thanks be! But I am concerned about my mother who is in her 77th year. Perhaps you can give us some help. She just won't see a doctor."

"Specifically, the symptoms are: some dizziness on rising in the morning which usually turns into a bilious attack later in the day. Associated with this is sluggish bowel action. She consumes great quantities of mineral oil. When attacks come on she gets "crazy in the head"--as she describes them.

"She insists on being her own doctor because my father was a veterinarian (!) and she learned some of the properties of various dog medicines that were also medicines for "people."

"She thinks that diets are "crazy;" she crams herself with fats (fried foods, lots of butter, fatty meats, etc.); she drinks at least 6 cups of coffee a day, and takes a glass of beer daily! She must have the constitution of a horse to do all this, I figure."

"Otherwise, she is a thin, nervous type, a chronic worrier, and a negative thinker. She has a nice situation which could be without worry, but she is always the one who sees the fly in the ointment, the hole rather than the doughnut, and so on. One of her attacks came last week after she had a fight with one of the neighbor's kids!

"Dr. Steincrohn, can you help people who really don't want to be helped except in their own way? Part of her trouble may be old age, but she has been the same way ever since I can remember. COMMENT: From way back here I can visualize what you are going through. Your mother has been an individualist all her life. And added to that, there is now an overlay of stubbornness that sometimes becomes an outstanding characteristic of people when they are much younger!

Your mistake is in not insisting on medical help. If she won't go to the doctor, have the doctor come to the house.

I have seen many elderly people like your mother, who apparently beyond control, became subdued in temper and "easy to live with." There is a comparatively new medicine called Chlorpromazine that so often does the trick in these unmanageable elderly people. Probably your doctor will try it.

I believe that this drug may also be some use for the husband of Mrs. W., of Chattanooga, Tennessee, who writes: "My husband has hardening of the arteries. He is 75. His memory is bad. He can't remember his own children at times, or our next door neighbors."

"He wishes he would die; says no one cares for him. We do all in our power to make him understand that we care, but to no avail."

"He won't shave himself, seldom takes a bath, never wants to change his clothes or see anyone. He says he wants to go to an asylum."

Is there anything that can be done? He won't consent to see a doctor.

COMMENT: The decision to see a doctor should be yours and not that of a patient who is in no position to make a proper decision. Better call your doctor. Tired or tense? SYLVIA PORTER

Cost Of Services

Financial Expert From Abroad
Finds This Astonishing Change

It happened at a small, private dinner given a few evenings ago in honor of five West European financial experts brought to our country by the Committee for Economic Development to report how Europe views our inflation, our outflow of gold, our new trade problems. When I was introduced to the professor from West Germany he made social talk by saying it as his first visit to New York since 1950 and I returned the social talk by asking what differences impressed him most.

"On the cost of your services, how much the cost of service has gone up in your country!" As I started at the utterly unexpected answer, his words tumbled out. "I had my hair cut today; it cost me $2! I had to have my suit pressed when I got off the plane, they charged me $2! I took a taxi for only a few blocks and the meter said $1.30! I..."

While he paused for breath, a few others joined us and the conversation switched to how much a steel price rise might further hurt us in competing in the world trade markets.

But I kept staring at the professor, for it had taken a stranger to our shores to pinpoint with a few simple illustrations the most important and yet the most underplayed aspect of our postwar inflation.

At the CED dinner the conversation revolved around what policies America should adopt to regain a balance in trade with the rest of the world and reassure our friends that we can and will control inflation. Understandably, much of the talk was about the prices of goods.

But the great force behind the rise in the price level since World War II has not been the rise in the cost of things. It has been the rise in the cost of non-things—services. Consider these facts:

All items in the consumer price index rose 29.3 per cent between 1947 and 1958. But all services in the index soared 50.7 per cent!

The rise in the prices of durable and nondurable goods we personally consume was around 19 per cent in this period.

The rise in the prices of the services we consume was 42 per cent.

As the just-released staff report of the Joint Economic Committee on our economy puts it, "The impact of services on the movement of the consumer price index and in view of the importance of the index as a factor affecting wage movements, on the economy as a whole, is striking." And Dr. Otto Eckstein, director of the staff study, adds the eye-opening remark:

"In fact, the index would have shown no net increase whatever from 1951 to 1958 if the prices of services had remained constant; in other words, the entire rise in consumer prices from 1951 to 1958 was due to the services sector."

And not only do services cost more; we also spend an increasing share of our dollars for services. Our total purchases between 1947 and 1958 rose 89 per cent while our purchases of services jumped 120 per cent. We've been buying less goods, more services.

Why have the prices of services risen so much? Here, the answer cannot be the usual, superficial one about climbing wages.

True, on the prices of such services as home repairs, auto repairs, the wages established by the building trades unions and the auto union have had a direct impact. In some instances the same workers who belong to the building trade unions may work as home repairmen, for instance.

But the explanation for the tremendous rise in the cost of medical care? Strictly the pressures of a ballooning demand on a relatively slowly rising supply. The solution here must be expansion of the supply of medical facilities, medical personnel.

The explanation for the rise in the cost of such unskilled services as cleaning workers, laundrymen, etc.? Clearly, the molasses pace of increase in efficiency. The solution here must be to improve the productivity in the services, and it can be done.

Daily Devotional

But Jesus answered them, My Father worketh hitherto, and I work. — John 5:17.

There was an open clash between Christ and Jewish authorities over the proper observance of the Sabbath. The rabbis had developed a specific, detailed code and, when in doubt, all one had to do was to consult their "book." Many of their rules were preposterous, such as that a man with a crutch or wooden leg must not walk on Sunday because he thus carried a burden. Christ gave us sound principles, not a multitude of "musts" and "don'ts," and showed that love and kindness are the really important things.

Eternal God, fill us with the spirit of Thy Son that we may be true representatives of Thee at all times. In His name we pray. Amen.

It Makes Me Happy

"I MAKES ME heart so happy when... My friends have real success... And they are truly blessed by God... With every happiness... Their joy is mine as much as if I had their blessings, too... And in that knowledge I believe... Most certainly I do... It is so wonderful to see... That brighter side of life... Against the dreary picture of... Our struggle and our strife... And I am always hoping that... Their joy will go right on... Each night surrounded by sweet dreams... Each day a brighter dawn... I only wish that more and more... Of all the friends I treasure... Would have that kind of fortune good... Too marvelous to measure."

New Quakes Rocking Peru

LIMA, Peru (UPI) — Two new earthquakes rocked Peru Friday as travelers reaching Lima reported the total destruction of the small city of Chuquibambilla in the first tremors last Wednesday.

The two new earth shocks this morning raised the total of tremors since Monday to twenty-five. They were not as severe as the earthquakes earlier this week.

The presumed death toll in the 25 tremors was 60. Well over 400 other persons were injured.

Friday's earthquakes were centered in Ica Province. The first virtually destroyed the cathedral at Ica. Several persons were injured there. Other buildings tumbled down in a wide area.

At Palpa, 48 miles distant, an estimated 80 per cent of houses were destroyed, although no immediate casualties were reported. At Camana an estimated 70 per cent of the crude dwellings collapsed.

President Manuel Prado left by air for Arequipa Friday to visit the devastated city. Damage there was estimated in excess of 200 million soles (roughly 10 million dollars).

At least 29 persons are known to have been killed in Arequipa.

Roy Warning State Sheriffs

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Public Safety Director E. P. Roy warned Louisiana sheriffs Friday they have until Monday to put a lid on gambling or state troopers will do it for them.

Roy, Gov. Earl K. Long's state police chief, used polite, diplomatic words, rather than a stern ultimatum.

Newspapers have been worrying the life out of him, the terse, bespectacled Roy told a news conference.

"We haven't had any gambling complaints in this office in three months and everything seemed fine."

"How it started in New Orleans, I don't know," he said. "I didn't take any immediate steps because I wanted to know the facts and see if it were true.

"I found out it was true, to a certain extent."

"I don't believe there is a sheriff in the state who won't suppress gambling if he knows it is going on."

"That's a broad statement, I know," he admitted, "but a fact."

Roy said he believed sheriffs would cooperate.

Monday is the day to call it off, he said. "If any gambling is going on Monday, state police will close it down wherever found and will destroy any gambling paraphernalia seized."

Roy acted a day after three church groups joined in a loud protest against the renewal of gambling, particularly in big sprawling Jefferson Parish, adjacent to New Orleans.

The trio, the Greater New Orleans Federation of Churches, the East Jefferson Ministerial Assn. and the Louisiana Moral and Civic Foundation, called for a halt.

Gov. Long was sent word to force the sheriffs to act.

Roy said he sent telegrams to each of the sheriffs where gambling was uncovered in his investigation, seeking their cooperation in closing gambling by Monday.

"If they need any assistance in doing that," Roy said, "we'll be glad to cooperate. However, no matter whether any sheriff was in the state who won't suppress gambling if he knows it is going on."

While Roy was concentrating on the protests in Jefferson, where gambling broke out after the second primary for governor, slot machines, blackjack, pinball machines and bingo operations sprang up along the Gold Coast stretch some 20 miles along the highway west of the Mississippi River bridge here, the one-armed bandits were easily available. Many cafes and bars offered ways to beat the game of chance.

Negro Leaders Call On FBI To Tell Names

BILOXI, Miss. (UPI) — Negro leaders called on the FBI Friday to announce the names of 23 men suspected of the lynch-murder of a young Mississippi Negro.

The demands came after a Federal grand jury were refused on Thursday to indict anyone for killing Mack Charles Parker. A state grand jury had refused two months earlier even to study evidence gathered by the FBI after a group of masked men dragged Parker from the Pearl River County jail at Poplarville, Miss., and shot him to death.

ACTION

The action of the two grand juries apparently closed the books on Parker's death—the 37th lynching in Mississippi since 1892.

Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, urged Atty. Gen. William Rogers to release the FBI report "so that the world may know who the suspects are and be able to appraise the quality of justice administered in the state of Mississippi."

Kelly Alexander, president of the North Carolina NAACP, made the same request "so that the entire world can really understand the type of justice that Negroes receive in the state of Mississippi."

Medgar Evers, head of the Mississippi NAACP, called for "federal legislation with teeth" guaranteeing Negro voting rights.

Lawsuits Filed In Court Here

Henry T. Sanderson filed a lawsuit for $16,901.50 yesterday against Bentz and Elmore Inc. and the Travelers Indemnity Co. for injuries he said he received in a wreck exactly one year ago.

The suit, filed with the Ouachita Parish Clerk of Court, charges that on Jan. 15, 1959, a Bentz and Elmore truck driven by Lewis Kellner rammed the rear of a car he was riding in.

He charges the firm with gross negligence and states that he received severe back injuries.

Another suit filed by Fannie Robinson and William A. Robinson asks $5500 damages from Sig Lett.

The Robinsons say that they rented a house at 1104 Rogers from Lett, but the floor next to a closet gave way and Mrs. Robinson fell through, receiving internal and back injuries.

Juvenile Admits Theft Of Seven Autos Locally

West Monroe police authorities yesterday said they had arrested a juvenile who admitted the theft of seven automobiles during the past eight or ten days.

The youth, of West Monroe, also admitted a house burglary in early November which the police had been investigating.

Three of the seven stolen automobiles were taken in the city limits of West Monroe, and the other four were from Monroe. All seven autos were recovered before the juvenile was arrested, officials said.

Six were recovered in West Monroe, and the other in Monroe where they had been abandoned by the youth after they were taken.

He was being held yesterday in the detention home, West Monroe officers said.

Plan For Zone Code Here Set For Discussion

A preliminary draft of the proposed zoning code for Monroe will be discussed with city officials at a meeting of the Ouachita - Monroe Regional Planning Commission Monday.

"It's preliminary discussion," stressed Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard. "It will be quite some time before any decisions are reached for actual zoning."

Planning Director George Parsons and city planner Arch Winter of Mobile, Ala., will be on hand for the 7:30 p.m. session on the second floor of City Hall.

Under study for approximately two years, the zoning code will not be "up for adoption" before next July, Howard said.

"A lot of discussion is necessary — the plans may be changed 12 times before the actual zoning ordinances are presented to the public," he added.

Zoning will affect what time buildings may be constructed in various parts of the town, designate residential and commercial zones, and house locations on lots, among other provisions.

Police Blotter

CHARGED

Henry Lee Hayes, 24, Negro of 1003 Oak street, was charged by Monroe police yesterday with theft. Officers said he had issued a worthless check. No bond was set last night.

West Monroe police charged E. N. Vidriel, 39, of 601 Travin street, with theft. He was charged with the theft of a leather jacket, which authorities said was valued at less than $20 by its owner.

WALL STREET VIEWS

Some Optimism Rubbing Off

NEW YORK (AP)—Some of the optimism with which Wall Street greeted the new year seems to be rubbing off.

"The 'glorious 60s' have begun with a sharp reaction in the stock market, and many observers have begun with a sharp reaction in the stock market, and many observers have suddenly become pessimistic," says the brokerage firm, Goodbody & Co.

The financial analyst, Business Reports, Inc., observes that, "Some technical flaws appearing in the market structure have tended to temper the enthusiasm."

"Perhaps," says Goodbody, "a major element in the decline has been a confusion of voices about the meaning of the steel strike settlement. Whenever there is confusion, investors tend to back away from new buying—unless a substantial stock market decline has already taken place."

"Reappraisal seems to bear out that the decline is a trading reaction following a temporary exhaustion of the factors that caused stocks to reach new highs at the very beginning of the year."

Business Reports expressed the opinion that Wall Street merely ran out of good news on which to sustain its early January advance.

"With the steel strike out of the way and the auto industry already embarked on what is hoped to be a near-record year," it comments, "Wall Street bulls could foresee little in the way of bullish news items."

"Helping the cautiousness was the recurrent fear, or rather conviction, that money rates would be raised. Brokers already have raised their charges on margin funds and this helped bring on some lightning of accounts."

Harold X. Schreder, executive vice president of Group Securities, Inc., of New York, says that while the stock market at current levels may experience periodically wide and disturbing corrections, he believes that business and the market are in uncompleted uptrends.

"Corrections such as we are currently experiencing represent buying opportunities for carefully selected common stocks," he adds.

GOP Party Out To Cop 'Smart' Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Republican party is out to capture a larger chunk of the egghead vote.

The man in charge of a GOP drive to line up more intellectuals is Dr. Cornelius P. Cotter, 35-year-old assistant to Republican National Chairman Thruston B. Morton.

Cotter, an associated professor of political science at Stanford University, said Friday one of several new party activities is aimed at interesting more college faculties in Republican principles and enlisting their help in campaigning for the egghead vote.

"This is a broad party endeavor and will find expression not only in the national committee, but in groups in Congress, and on state and district levels," Cotter said in an interview.

Cotter said there is a popular impression that college professors tend to be radical and to vote overwhelmingly Democratic. But taken as a whole, he said, there is no more conservative group in the country.

The reason for the popular feeling that most professors are Democrats, Cotter said, stems from a preponderance of registered Democrats among teachers in the social sciences. He said they are more vocal on public issues and more politically active.

He said professors in such subjects as engineering, medicine and business administration are more likely to be Republican.

Cotter has a good background for his job. He organized the Northern California Committee for Arts and Sciences for Eisenhower in 1956. He said the GOP National Committee became interested in this as showing that "we were not a bunch of tired old fogies, but were greatly interested in these intellects."

"The time is ripe," he said, "to let them know what the Republican party stands for. Our long-term goal is this: America is moving into an age of intellect. It is vitally important to a political party that the American people fully realize that the Republican party is a serious intellectual enterprise and is thinking about the major problems facing our society."

Cotter said there are 310,000 members of college faculties and the immediate aim is to employ their talents more effectively.

atmosphere after its brief climb into the edge of space.

The device can tell the pilot when his angle of descent is critical and should be changed.

A plane plummeting toward the earth from the X15's peak altitude could, without careful control, become red hot and incinerate the pilot. Even in a controlled descent the nose of the plane turns cherry red, hence the name for the sensing device extending from the plane's forward end.

Stevenson Not Expecting To Be Drafted

WASHINGTON (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson said Friday he does not expect to be drafted by the Democrats as presidential nominee, but he does view high government office "with great respect."

Stevenson, Democratic choice for president in 1952 and 1956, gave this reply to questions about whether he would take the presidential nomination once again and whether he would accept a job as secretary of state.

The Democratic leader was interviewed as he entered the State Department for briefings on his forthcoming business-pleasure trip to Latin America. He plans to start Feb. 9, going first to Mexico and visiting about a dozen countries in two months.

A newsman asked Stevenson whether—since he has announced he is not a candidate for the nomination this time—he would still accept a draft from the Democrats.

"I think that is a bridge I will have to cross when I get to it. I don't expect to get to it," Stevenson replied.

ROBERT MONTGOMERY

Actor Tells Views On TV Rigging

WASHINGTON (AP)—Actor Robert Montgomery told the Federal Communications Commission Friday he was amazed when the TV networks and advertising agencies involved said they were ignorant of rigging on quiz shows until the fixes were publicly exposed in the summer of 1958.

Montgomery was testifying at FCC hearings on possible program controls.

"I am sure the commission was as much bewildered as were those of us in the business and the general public by the statement on the part of the network and advertising agencies that they knew nothing of these practices," Montgomery said.

"Certainly, it seemed a most peculiar statement for any businessman to make that he did not know that his most widely advertised and most profitable product was a phony."

Montgomery, under cross-examination, said there was considerable discussion of quizzes and payola long before the public disclosures.

"I won't say the facts were known," Montgomery testified, "but questions were being raised in the industry itself as to the validity of quiz shows six months to a year before the revelations about them."

Montgomery, testified in a well-filled hearing room. He brought frequent laughter from the audience with his comments on the broadcasting business.

He said the asserted ignorance of the networks and advertising agencies in relation to the quiz show and payola was comparable to the president of steel corporation suddenly discovering his company had been peddling a product "made of some variety of cheese."

At one point he observed: "A mistake made on TV is not a mistake made in a telephone booth."

Montgomery, who has been White House technical adviser on television since 1953, said he subscribes "to as little government control as possible" in the broad-

AS SILLERS' SUCCESSOR

Reports Strong About Rep. Fox

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—The apparent by-passing of Rep. Russell Fox of Claiborne County for a key committee chairmanship has strengthened reports that he is House Speaker Walter Sillers' chosen successor.

Usually reliable Capitol sources have said the 72-year-old Sillers plans to name a Speaker pro tempore as a result of the heart attack he suffered in Germany last November.

Although Sillers claimed almost complete recovery, his activities in the House Speaker's chair have been noticeably slower than usual.

Legislative sources speculating on chairmanships Sillers would announce next week said Fox declined Judiciary en banc because he preferred to remain a powerful leader in floor activities.

With 24 years in the House, Fox is second only to Sillers in length of service and is the only influential veteran lawmaker without a committee chairmanship.

Under House rules, the Speaker can name a speaker pro tempore to replace him for five days or less. After five days, the House elects a permanent speaker.

Obviously, a Sillers - chosen temporary speaker would be more likely to win permanent election if Sillers were unable to continue in the chair.

Fox could have a strong contender for the chair.

Rpe. George Payne Cossar of Tallahatchie County, long considered Sillers' chief lieutenant, has been rumored as having eyed the chair. He served as campaign manager for Sillers' election to a fifth term as speaker.

He has been chairman of the powerful Rules Committee and is slated to resume that post.

Fox is 50 years old and is a Pattison farmer and livestock breeder. Cossar, with 12 years service, is a 52-year-old Charleston lawyer. Both men are regarded highly among Mississippi's political leaders.

Other reported committee chairmanships include:

Ways and Means: Rep. Charlie Jacobs of Bolivar County, to succeed former Rep. Hilton Walls of Washington County who was defeated after 29 years in the House. Judiciary en banc: Rep. Thompson McClellan of Clay County, succeeding former Rep. Joe Hawkins of Coahoma County who did not seek re-election.

Appropriations: Rep. John Junkin of Adams County, re-appointment.

Education: Rep. J. P. Love of Holmes County, succeeding former Rep. Jim Baxter of Lauderdale County who was defeated.

Forestry: Rep. Britte Hughey of Amite County, succeeding former Rep. Elwin Livingston of Scott County.

Highways: Rep. Alton Phillips of Neshoba County, succeeding former Rep. Blaine Eaton of Smith County who resigned.

Agriculture: Rep. Joe Bailey of Yalobusha County, re-appointment.

County Affairs: Rep. Buddy Newman of Issaquena County, re-appointment.

Local and Private: Rep. Luther Sims of Lowndes County, re-appointment.

Transportation: Rep. Hervey Hicks of Yazoo County, re-appointment.

Joint Committee to Investigate State Offices: Rep. Walter Hester of Adams County, re-appointment.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's. X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Solon Tells Prediction

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.) predicted Friday that Sen. John F. Kennedy (Mass.) will challenge Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (Minn.) for Democratic convention delegates in Wisconsin's April 5 presidential primary.

"I have no inside information, but I think there is a good chance that he (Kennedy) will decide that he's got to go into Wisconsin," Proxmire told United Press International.

Humphrey already has said he will enter the Wisconsin contest, as well as primaries in the District of Columbia, Oregon and South Dakota.

Kennedy so far is a definite entry in only the New Hampshire early-bird primary.

He will enter other contests but is still in the process of deciding which ones.

Kennedy indicated Thursday in a speech to the National Press Club that he was leaning toward the idea of passing up Wisconsin, where Humphrey has strong support.

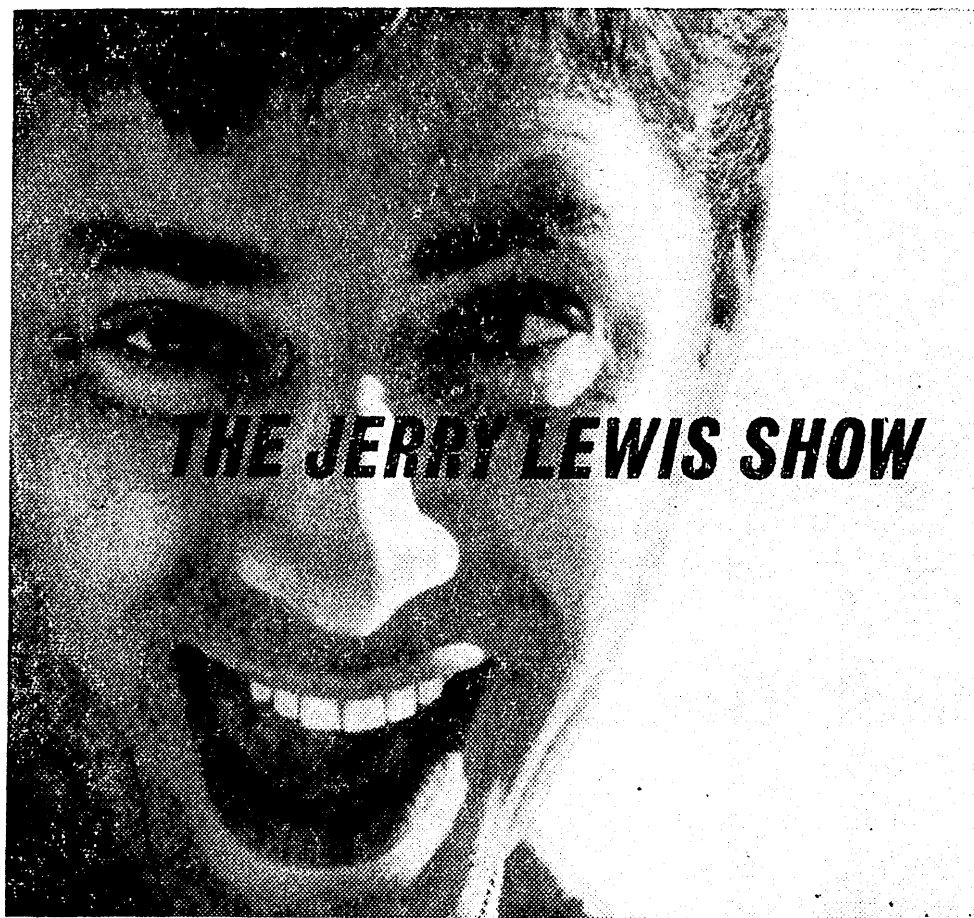

He said he expected to meet Humphrey in two or three primaries, mentioning Indiana, Nebraska, West Virginia, Oregon and California as possibilities.

He also offered to enter the Florida primary if Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.) and Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.)—or either of them—would run against him there to test their reputed strength in the South.

Johnson and Symington are considered possibilities for the Democratic nomination but have not announced as formal candidates.

As for the Wisconsin contest, Proxmire said he would be "inclined to consider seriously" entering the primary as a favorite son should Kennedy stay out.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

COLD PRONE

I. M. G. writes: "A young man of 26 has a cold every year, lasting from fall until spring. He is not bothered in the summer time. Have you any suggestions about eliminating his colds, which prevent him from doing as much as he would like to do?"

Most people have at least two or three simple respiratory infections each year. Some have one after another, and a few are bothered constantly. These individuals usually have an allergy or a focus of infection in the sinuses, tonsils, or adenoid tissue that keeps the disorder alive. Thorough examination is needed to make these determinations. Removal of infected tonsils, for example, may solve this man's problem.

On the other hand, seasonal colds frequently are traced to allergy or to irritation from atmospheric conditions that exist during the cold season. More dust and other pollutants are present in the air during the winter, especially in the cities. The particles irritate the membranes and the constant flow of secretions is considered a cold.

There is less ventilation in buses and subways during the winter months and the commuter is bound to inhale someone's germs. These situations are difficult to avoid unless it is possible to move to another climate or change the working habits.

The dry, steam heated apartment is the Nemesis of others. The nasal membranes are better able to resist the cold viruses when they are moist. Using a humidifier or placing pans of water on the radiators helps correct this situation. Over-treatment also prolongs a cold, especially when the individual continues to use strong nose drops long after they're needed. In these cases, stopping all medicine eradicates the cause of congestion.

Meanwhile, the young man in question ought to maintain a high degree of resistance by getting ample sleep and avoiding over-exertion, emotional strain, sudden changes in temperature, and too much alcohol. Cold and flu shots are advisable to protect against a few of the organisms that produce respiratory diseases. Thyroid extract will be helpful if a deficiency of this hormone exists.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

needed in an amebic infection? REPLY No. Drugs that kill these intestinal micro-organisms will prove far more effective in treatment. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on amebic dysentery.

SHRINKING AND LEMON

M. G. writes: I have heard that if you drink the juice of a lemon every morning it will shrink the stomach. Is this true?

REPLY No. The stomach contains an acid that is many times stronger than that in lemon juice, so why would it shrink the organ?

DIET IN ANEMIA

J. K. writes: Is diet of any value in pernicious anemia?

REPLY Yes, especially foods rich in iron and vitamin B12, such as liver and other meat. But, to keep pernicious anemia under control, more than diet is needed. Injections of liver and vitamin B12 are essential.

BENIGN TUMORS

J. L. writes: Are lipomas considered malignant?

REPLY No. These fatty tumors are innocent.

Eisenhower Slated To Enjoy Hunt

ALBANY, Ga. (UPI)—President Eisenhower flew south by jet plane Friday to enjoy a week end of quail and dove hunting in the warm south Georgia sunshine.

He left a cool, damp and dreary Washington. Flying from Andrews Air Force Base he reached Turner Air Force Base here in a flight that took one hour and 45 minutes. He stepped off the plane into bright sunshine and temperatures above 70, a sharp contrast to the weather in the capital.

The President was greeted at Turner by Brig. Gen. Austin J. Russell, commandant of the 82nd Air Division, and by the President's weekend hosts, Mr. and Mrs. W. Alton (Pete) Jones.

Jones is board chairman of Cities Service Oil Co., a close friend and frequent golfing partner of the President.

Eisenhower entered Jones' car and the presidential party left immediately for Jones' 14,000-acre Blue Springs plantation near here.

The White House said the President planned to stay in Georgia until sometime Sunday.

Eisenhower's party began hunting soon after lunch.

Eisenhower was accompanied southward aboard the big Air Force 707 jet transport by two other close friends, George L. Allen of Gettysburg, Pa., and Washington, and Charles Jones, head of Richfield Oil Co. on the West Coast.

Apparently the President, Allen and Charles Jones were together at the White House late Thursday and decided that the weekend weather prospects for Washington or Gettysburg would drown any hope of recreation in the area.

The President decided to make the southern trip about 8:30 Thursday night.

VISITING GIRLS TRIUMPH

Irish Trounce Oak Grove, 69-41, For 6th District Win

With nine players contributing to the scoring, St. Matthew's raced to the halfway mark in district 2-A play with a perfect record by outclassing Oak Grove, 69-41, here Friday night.

The victory was the sixth of the season against conference opposition for Jim Mahoney's defending champions while Cecil Embanato, using a jump shot from the center of the circle, and Zagona, hitting from the side lines, dumped in 10 and 8 points, respectively, in the initial half as the Fighting Irish easily romped to their 27th win of the year against four defeats.

Embanato wound up with scoring honors for the night, bagging 6 fielders and 3 foul shots for 15 points. Big John Varino, finding the basket elusive of late, pumped in 14 points and hauled in 14 rebounds.

Hustling Dub Martin, Oak Grove center, led the visitors with 12 points. Roger Hudson, who entered the game in the fourth quarter, got eight points in the period.

Charley Biggar, playing his second game for St. Matthew's after an appendectomy three weeks ago, went about half the way and scored eight points. Frankie Accardo, sitting out much of the game after three fouls in the opening minutes, sacked 11.

SEA ISLAND, Fla. (AP) — Mickey Wright, defending champion, Friday made a bid for repeat honors with a 37-75 opening round in the Sea Island Ladies Invitational Open Golf Tournament.

The tall, blonde San Diego, Calif., links wizard took a one-stroke lead over Kathy Cornelius of Springfield, Ohio, and Fay Crocker of Montivedeo, Uruguay. Both had 74s.

It was Miss Wright's day from the beginning as a field of 22 professionals and 64 amateurs all showed effects of a long winter layoff.

No one could quite touch par 72 but Miss Wright inaugurated a new nine on the Sea Island course with a one-over 37. She then parred the back nine at 36 to take the lead.

Only woman golfer ever to win the U.S. Open twice in succession, Miss Wright twice went into the water on the Seaside course on the first nine. On one hole, however, she was able to recover and score a par. She had three bogies and two birdies.

In an accompanying professional-amateur contest 60 leading amateur males were matched with the pros.

In that event, Dick Champman of Pinehurst, N.C., former British Amateur champion, turned in a 3-under-par 69 and W.L. Goodloe Jr. of Atlanta, scored a 71.

The pro-am honors were taken by a foursome composed of Miss Cornelius, Charley Yates of Atlanta, W.H. Backus of St. Simons Island and James H. Hunter of North Adams, Mass. They turned in a 60 net score with handicaps.

Training the leaders in the women's play were Marlene Hagge Delray Beach, Fla., with 37-78 and Joe Ann Prentice, Birmingham, Ala., and Marilyn Smith, Wichita, Kan., and Patty Berg, St. Andrews, Ill., all with 37-80.

Two pre-tournament favorites, a year's top money winner Betsy Rawls, of Spartanburg, S.C., and a former champion here, Louise Suggs of Atlanta, apparently faded out of competition in the three-day, 54-hole medal play for a $6,000 purse.

Miss Rawls shot a 38-41-79 and Miss Suggs fell to a 40-40-80, seven strokes off the pace established by Miss Wright.

Trio Involved In Tight Fight For No. 1 Post

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It took just one big game each to send George Duncan, Jim McDonald and Kelly Coleman into the 1-2-3 positions in the NCAA small college basketball scoring figures.

Duncan, of Wayne State, scored 50 points against Western Reserve last week and zoomed from 11th place to first with a 31-point scoring average for six games. McDonald of West Virginia Wesleyan and Coleman of Kentucky Wesleyan averaged 49 each against Salem and Southern Illinois, respectively. McDonald moved from 13th to second with a 29.7 average and Coleman from 21st to third at 29.6.

Ron Altenberg of Cornell College, last week's leader, dropped back to eighth place after scoring 59 points in three games. Cleo Hill of Winston-Salem, leader the previous week, wound up tenth. The statistics are based on games through Jan. 9.

Pete Gulden of Washington and Jefferson, who hasn't played since before Christmas, leads in field goal accuracy with a .724 percentage. Ron Slaymaker of Emporia State is best from the foul line with two misses in 42 attempts for .522. Zelmo Beatty of Prairie View is top rebounder with a 2.48 percentage.

Mississippi College (5-2) and West Virginia Tech (14-2) are the only teams averaging more than 100 points a game—113.7 for the former and 108.3 for the latter. On the defensive side, Wittenberg college has permitted only 46.3 points a game and McNeese State and the University of Chicago 50.1. Team figures include games of Jan. 13.

Tulane Plays Spring Hill At Home Tonight

NEW ORLEANS, La. (Special) — The Tulane Greenies, boasting a 3-1 record in Southeastern Conference basketball action, meet Spring Hill College of Mobile here Saturday night at 8:15 p.m., in a non-conference contest. Then the Wave takes a 14-day rest from the hardwood wars to concentrate on semester examinations.

Tulane will move back into SEC action Jan. 30 playing host to Ole Miss, followed by a home contest Feb. 1 with Miss. State.

Although Coach Cliff Wells' Greenies were rudely bounced from the league's top spot by Kentucky in a game Monday night at Lexington, Tulane's 3-1 loop record is good and puts the Wave in a solid position to remain a contender, Tulane is not second.

Kentucky's excellent defense stalled Tulane's offense but the Greenies still have three starters hitting in double figures. On 13 games, sophomore center Jack Ardon has a 16.3 scoring average with 212 points to lead the Wave. Senior forward Vic Klinker is second with 195 and an even 15 point average. Senior guard Dick O'Brien is third with a 12.2 average on 159 points.

Ardon also leads Tulane in rebounding with 199 for a 15.3 average per game. Klinker hitting 77 out of 89 free throws sports a fine .868 percentage to lead the Wave in that department, while sharp-shooting Dick O'Brien is second with an 849 mark on 45 out of 53.

Tulane opened its SEC action with victories over Georgia and Florida here at home. Then came a top notch effort at Tennessee with the Wave winning over the Vols in the final moments. That win put Tulane in first place in the SEC, but Monday's loss to Kentucky dropped the Wave into a tie for second place in the 12-team league.

Johansson To Be Honored As Athlete Of Year

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Ingemar Johansson, the handsome Swede who shocked the sports world by winning the heavyweight boxing championship last June, will be honored as the 1959 "Athlete of the Year" Jan. 29, it was announced Friday.

Johansson, a 5-11 underdog when he dethroned Floyd Patterson as champion, accepted an invitation to receive the Fraternal Order of Eagles-Fredrick C. Miller Memorial Trophy. Johansson agreed in a telephone conversation from New York, where he is negotiating for a title defense.

Johansson was voted the award in the annual year-end Associated Press poll. He received 120 votes, while runner-up Johnny Unitas of the Baltimore Colts drew 54.

Maria Ester Bueno, 19-year-old Brazilian school marm who won both the Wimbledon and U.S. tennis championships, was voted the Female Athlete of the Year for 1959.

Judge Robert C. Cannon, an official in the award presentation, said that attempts are being made to contact Miss Bueno in hopes of honoring her along with Johansson.

Bob Zawoluck, class of 1952, holds the basketball scoring record at St. John's University in Brooklyn with 1,799 points.

The rookie of the year in the Texas League for 1959 was Al Nagel of Amarillo. An outfielder, he will report to the San Francisco Giants.

Giants' Park Fire Hazard

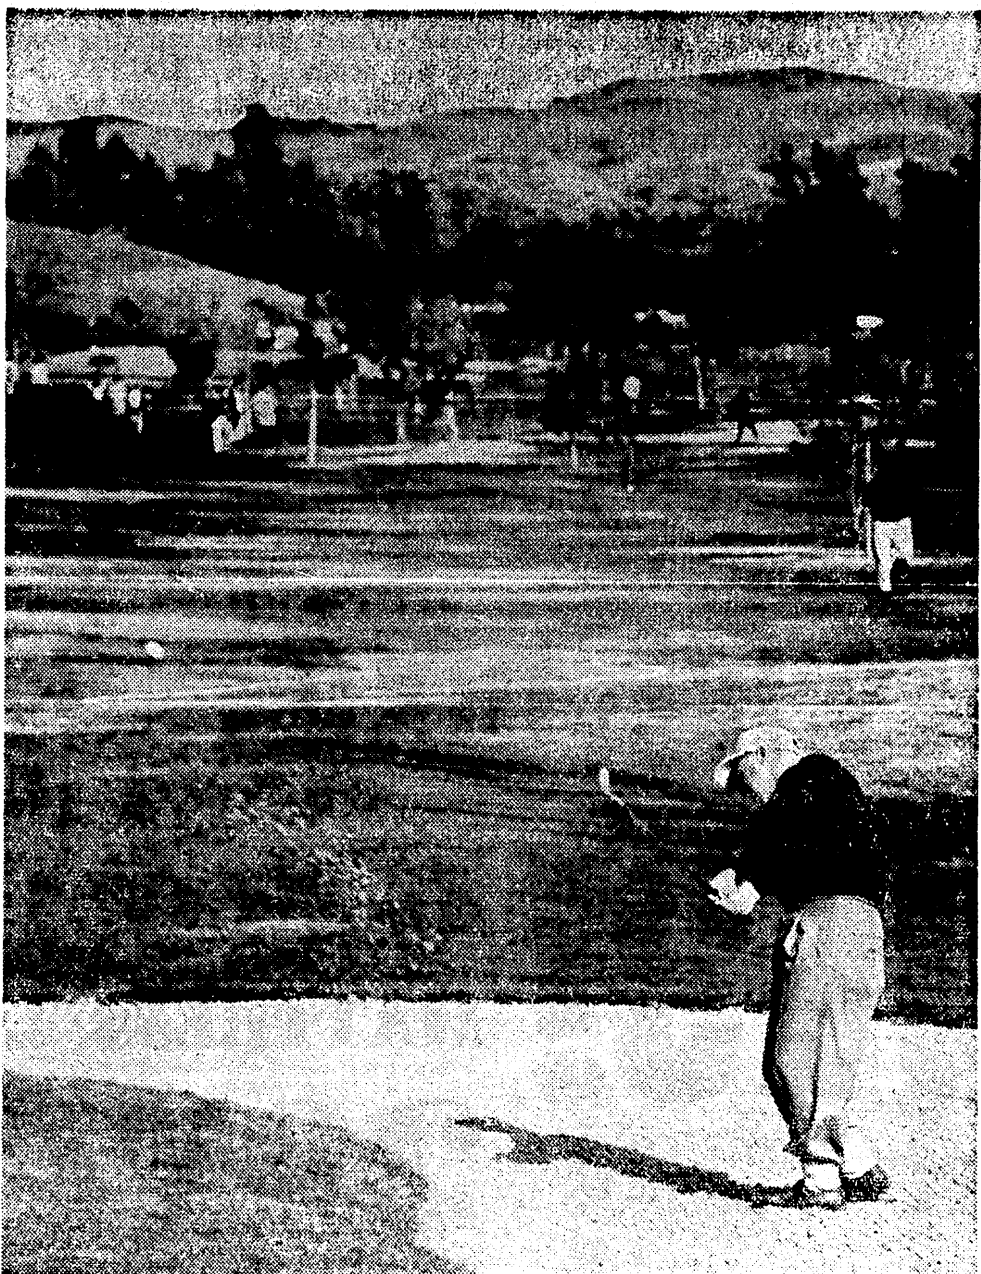

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Giants' new National League baseball park was called a "fire trap" Friday by Albert Hayes, chief of the City Bureau of Fire Prevention. He said he couldn't let the National League club play ball at Candlestick Park until changes are made.

"Of course a reinforced concrete structure is not going to burn up," Hayes said.

But, he explained, there were store rooms, locker rooms and other places with inflammable materials.

"Even a very small fire could give out large clouds of smoke and create a tremendous panic out there with hundreds injured or trampled on," Hayes said. "I'm not going to be responsible for that."

He said he would not issue a permit of occupancy for the recently completed baseball stadium until certain fire requirements are complied with. Without the permit, the Giants can't move in.

Lema Fires 6-Under-Par 66 To Lead Yorba Linda Open

YORBA LINDA, Calif. (AP) — Unheralded Tony Lema, finishing in the cold gloom of semi-darkness, led a field of par-wreckers through the first round of the $20,000 Yorba Linda Open Golf Tournament Friday.

The 25-year-old ex-Marine corporal from San Leandro, Calif., took the spotlight away from better known professionals with a 6-under-par 66. He had 33-63 on the par 36-36-72 Yorba Linda Country Club course.

The round, washed out Thursday, was played under relaxed wet weather rules that proved a scoring break for the 150 contestants.

Tees were moved up from their accustomed positions and a ball could be cleaned and teed up on firmer ground.

Even so, the 6,700 yards, plus renewed showers and chilly weather, presented a formidable test of golf.

Earlier, little Jerry Barber of Los Angeles and hulking Julius Borus of And Pines, N.C., had finished—Julius with 53-54 — 67, Jerry with 34-33-67.

There was a six-way tie at 68 among Lionel Hebert, Lafayette, La.; Paul Harney, Worcester, Mass.; Bo Winger, Odessa, Tex.; Harry Weedman of Englewood, Dave Marr, Cedarhurst, N.Y., and Doug Sanders, Miami Beach, Fla.

Forty-one players broke par, deadlocked at 69, going into Saturday's second round, were Dave Regan, Orlando, Fla.; John Barnum, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Joe Campbell, New York; Tony Bolt, Crystal River, Fla., and Don Fairfield, Jacksonville, Ill.

Included in the 70s were Art Wall Jr., Honesdale, Pa., U.S. Open champion Billy Casper, Apple Valley, Calif., who faded from a 33 to a 37 on the back side, and Jack Burke Jr., Kiamesha Lake, N.Y.

The best individual shot was executed by Jim Ferre, Crystal River, Fla. He used an 8-iron for an ace on the 122-yard eighth hole for the eighth hole-in-one of his career.

Dow Finsterwald, Tequesta, Fla., winner of the Los Angeles Open Tuesday, shot a 35-46-71.

Lema, a native of Oakland, Calif., and a pro since 1955, putted unusually well.

"When you're putting good," the good-looking young bachelor observed, "the putts look shorter."

Lema, 6-1, 170 pounds, had special thanks for Fred Hawkins, El Paso, Tex., pro. Hawkins loaned him a pair of heavy gloves for the last nine holes.

Barber, 43, a small man playing a big course with a small score, carded two birdies on the front nine and three on the last for a consistent round.

Boros, 33, was equally efficient and capped his round with eagle on the 18th. He used a 3-wood to hit up 12 feet from the pin and sank the putt.

No America For South Africans

PRESTORIA, — South Africa, (AP) — The South African Amateur Athletic Union Friday refused to allow its two top track stars to compete in a series of indoor meets in the United States.

The South African track body informed the American AAU by champion Gert Potgieter and Brit-letta that world 440-yard hurdle Empire 440-yard sprint champion Malcolm Spence would not be permitted to accept an invitation by Dan Ferris, the American AAU chief.

Swede's Victory 1959's Top Upset

By BEN OLAN

Associated Press Sports Writer

Ingemar Johansson's sensational technical knockout victory over Floyd Patterson in last June's heavyweight championship bout Friday was named the Upset of the Year for 1959 in the annual Associated Press poll.

A 5-1 underdog, the husky Swede floored Patterson seven times in the third round before the one-sided match was stopped. It was the most stunning boxing upset since 1936 when Max Baer, the Black Union from Germany, flattened Joe Louis.

Johansson's conquest was tabbed the most unexpected sports result by 63 of the 114 sportswriters and broadcasters participating in the poll. On a basis of three points for first place, two for second and one for third, Ingo's triumph received 239 points.

The Los Angeles Dodgers' National League pennant victory collected 15 firsts and 67 points. The Chicago White Sox' first place finish in the American League race drew 12 top positions and 58 points.

The Los Angeles Dodgers' third place win was named first on 10 ballots and piled up 40 points.

Johansson, who Thursday night received the Eddie Neil award as the Fighter of the Year, was given little chance to wrest the title from Patterson. The odds on a successful defense by Patterson went from 3-1 to 4-1 and finally 5-1 at ringside.

The Dodgers, off their seventh-place standing in 1958, were figured no higher than fourth by most of the experts. However, they shot past leading San Francisco a week before the season's end and wound up in a tie with Milwaukee. They beat the Braves in two straight playoff games.

SEC Vetoes Expansion; Alters Recruiting Policy

By ED TUNSTALL

BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — The Southeastern Conference closed its annual winter meeting Friday by scuttling expansion plans and adding a new twist to some recruiting practices.

Florida's proposal to increase the 12-member conference to 14 failed on a 6-3 vote. Although Florida did not name the schools it wanted as new members, reports had it they were the University of Miami and Florida State.

Conference commissioner Bernie Moore said expansion was sure to come up again in future sessions and was certain to be on the agenda at next year's winter meeting in Florida.

One of the changes in recruiting affects high school basketball players. Such athletes, Moore said, now cannot be signed to grant-in-aid scholarships until April 1, instead of the previous Dec. 7 date.

He said the proposal was adopted so that SEC recruiters would not interfere with high school basketball seasons.

Another recruiting stipulation spelled out during the day prohibits an athlete signed to a basketball grant or a minor sport scholarship from playing football.

"If a boy is to play football," Moore said, "he has to be on a football scholarship." The penalty, he said, is that the athlete involved would be cut off scholarship.

Moore said the conference also voted to conform its bowl formula to that used by the NCAA. The present rule provides that any bowl in which any SEC team competes has to give 50 per cent of total receipts to the competing teams with the bowl committee retaining 20 per cent for expenses.

The formula adopted Friday gives competing teams 75 per cent and the bowl committee 25 per cent, the same outline employed by the NCAA for other conferences.

The two-day meeting was fairly quiet with the expansion move the only controversial item.

Some other proposals adopted included:

Moving the date of the annual meeting back from the second weekend in January to the third weekend to avoid conflict with the annual NCAA meeting held the first week in January. Travel complications spurred adoption of the proposal.

Stepping up the annual track meet from the third weekend in May to the second weekend to avoid school examination conflicts. Tulane offered the proposal.

Prohibiting member schools from making public announcement that they plan to sign certain athletes to grant-in-aid scholarships. No such announcement can be made until the athlete actually signs and Moore said violations will be punished by barring the athlete involved from the offending school.

Raising the fees of football officials from $100 to $125 and basketball officials' fees from $80 to $75 per game.

Donating $6,000 to the U.S. Olympic fund in the name of the conference members.

The conference named Dr. Frank Dickey, president-designate of the University of Kentucky, as new conference president, succeeding Troy Middleton of Louisiana State. Dr. J. Wayne Reitz, vice president of the University of Florida, became SEC vice president and Dr. T. A. Bickerstaff of Mississippi was named secretary.

Along with Dickey, Reitz and Bickerstaff, Dr. Edwin Harrison of Georgia Tech and Dr. C. T. Sharpton of the University of Alabama became new members of the executive committee.

The professional contract problems, such as those involving All-Americans Billy Cannon of LSU and Charlie Flowers of Mississippi, did not come up for official conference consideration, but Moore said the athletic directors and coaches indicated they would have to work on the situation next year.

Both Cannon and Flowers reportedly have contracts with National Football League clubs, but said they would play with teams in the new American Football League.

Moore said the conference set a mandatory retirement age of 70 for the commissioner and provided for a commissioner's retirement fund and one for his secretary. Moore has four years to run on his present contract.

Banquet Scheduled For Tech Gridmen

RUSTON, La. (Special) — Louisiana Tech's Gulf States Conference championship football team of 1959 will be honored Wednesday evening at a banquet sponsored by the Ruston Rotary Club.

Attending the banquet, to be held at the Tech Student Center at 7 p.m., will be members of the Bulldogs squad and coaching staff, a number of special guests and the Rotarians. The banquet is an annual project of the Ruston Rotary Club.

The speaker for the annual banquet will not be identified until banquet time. He is said to be one of the most colorful speakers in the nation.

A highlight of the program will be the presentation of a number of awards to outstanding players of the 1959 grid team that won the GSC title with a perfect 5-0 win-loss record and which racked up a 9-1 season mark, one of the best in the history of the college.

Captains for the 1960 Bulldogs team will also be announced at the banquet.

Joe Allet, Tech athletic director and head football coach, reports that awards will be presented for the Most Valuable Senior Back, Most Valuable Freshman Back, Most Valuable Freshman Linebacker, Most Improved Back, Most Improved Linebacker, and Most Consistent Performer.

There will also be a scholastic award as well as awards for the Techsters who made exceptional contributions to the squad during the season. Members of the team who were named to the All-Gulf States Conference teams will also be recognized.

The Billy Moss Memorial Trophy will be given to the player who best exemplified the qualities of integrity, character and dependability. This annual award

YOUR PROBLEMS

Never Judge Person Through Someone Else

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: My Mom died a month ago after a long illness. My step-father hates me and always did. My only other relatives are an aunt and uncle who have no interest in me.

I'm 17 and have another year of high school. My step-father thinks education for girls is a waste of time. He wants me to quit school and get a job.

I have a lovely friend who is an only child. Her parents like me and have offered me a home with them. My step-father would probably be happy to see me go. Do you think people will look down on me if I go live with these folks?

Dear I.D.A.: If you can get permission from your step-father to make your home with these generous people I see no reason not to do so. It would be a good idea particularly since it would enable you to finish at least high school. Good luck.

Dear Ann: I'm 19, considered very attractive and am now employed as a telephone operator.

I've been dating a student who works part-time to put himself through school. He's having a tough time financially and must help his widowed mother.

A man who owns a busy cocktail lounge has told my mother I'm just the girl he's been looking for. He's at least 40, has lots of money, a big car and smokes cigars. I went out with him twice to please Mom and my skin crawled when he put his arm around the back of my chair.

Yesterday Mom gave me the devil. She said I was a dummy and one day I'd be sorry. She married my dad for love and claims it was the biggest mistake of her life. According to her if I had any brains I'd marry a man who could give me something and not bother with a "struggling punk."

I told her I'd feel as if I were selling myself if I married the older man. Mom is nobody's fool about most things but I think she's wrong. Will you back me up?

NEEDING YOUR HELP
Dear Needing: I'm happy to see there's SOME judgment in your family—even though it's unevenly distributed. You have it all.

Don't let anyone push you into a loveless marriage with a guy old enough to be your father.

If you couldn't stand this man's arm across your chair imagine looking at him across the breakfast table for the next 40 years.

Your disillusioned mom thinks she's giving you good advice—but she is grievously mistaken.

Dear Ann: I've been a very close friend of Mrs. X for 15 years. Six months ago she told me about the trouble she was having with a woman I'll call Joan. I won't go into detail but from her reports Joan seemed like such a terrible person I decided to have nothing more to do with her.

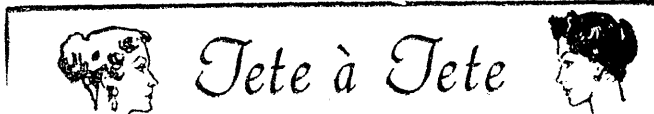

Joan noticed my sudden coolness and asked why. I told her straight to her face. Last week Mrs. X and Joan patched up their differences and are as thick as thieves. I feel as if I've been made a fool. When I asked Mrs. X how she could be friendly with Joan after all she knew, she said "I learned some of the things weren't true." What should I do now?

MRS. X-CLOODED
Dear Mrs. X-Clooded: Let this be a lesson. Never again judge a person through the eyes (or mouth) of a third party. Base your evaluation on your own experience. Apologize to Joan and maybe time will do the rest.

Nature Foods Sweep Ohio Party Circuit

DAYTON (AP)—Two Fairborn, Ohio, hostesses the other day compared notes on what they had served party guests. Not until the end of the evening did they tell the guests what they had eaten. One group had yogurt pie—the other, whole grain cream puffs with ice cream and whipped cream sweetened with honey.

"You have to be careful. Sometimes people wonder," admits Mrs. Robert Sattlem, one of a growing army of Americans taking up the cudgel for nature foods. As the Air Force captain's wife sees it, natural foods are those uncontaminated or processed by man. To conform with the ideas of the nature food enthusiasts, food should be used in as close to the natural state as possible. This rules out such things as food preservatives, chemical fertilizers, mass spraying and softeners.

To some, these proponents of natural foods are faddists, wasting their money on foolish ideas. But the supporters of the movement feel they have an obligation to wave what they call a sick America nurtured on poor food grown on poor soil.

DANDELION COFFEE
Betty Sattlem's grocery list is likely to read like this: "Soy bean macaroni. Whole flaxseed flakes. Scarcio powder. Dandelion coffee."

The macaroni tastes like any other, she says. The flaxseed flakes are breakfast cereal, scarcio powder replaces cocoa and the "coffee" is made in England from dandelion roots.

Mrs. Sattlem admits she's still making the transition to natural foods, starting it about a year ago. She cooks as little as possible but adds with a smile, "I miss the hot things."

Food costs are higher at first, she declares, but they even out with time.

"Mainly because I don't buy as much now. Most people spend a lot on extras—potato chips, pretzels, snacks, beer—but I find the natural foods are more filling and more satisfying. Therefore you eat less."

Instead of candy, Mrs. Sattlem buys organically grown dried fruits for young Paul, Linda and Susie to nibble on. They also drink little milk, substitute yogurt and cheese for the calcium. Shopping is something of a headache, she acknowledges, since there aren't many sources

Questions and Answers Guide For Homemakers

Q.—I have just had put down in my kitchen brick pattern linoleum. It is the true color of red brick outlined with gray. My wall from the chair rail down is white. What should I paint the walls? Also, what should I use for second color for curtains?

A.—Paint walls gray that you find in flooring then paint chair rail moulding the brick red. Keep curtains in solid gray and use ball fringe, also in red brick color, to trim. The red and gray scheme should be most effective and certainly unusual. The only other color I would ever add to such a scheme would be white.

Q.—I have a glass door with fifteen panes of glass in the middle of my living room. The room is twelve by twenty-four. On either side of the door is a high window. What can I possibly do with this door? The glass lets in light which I feel the room needs.

A.—The best solution, though them?

A.—Keep your draperies the medium gray tone of the walls. Then, since you have only two basic colors (red and gray), you can have a great deal of fun with accessories, which can be in every wild shade of red from pale pink to fuchsia. Avoid the orange and coral tones but use the pinks and reds for cigarette boxes, vases, flowers, floor and sofa pillows, ash trays, even for framing the black and white prints I would suggest for your walls.

Q.—I would like to brighten up my living room. It seems so dull! The sectional sofa is green with white flowers. Another chair is lime. Tables, coffee table and corner bookcase are blond. Walls are light gray. I have maroon rug and gold draperies.

A.—It is not so much that your room is dull. It is too confused, has no central theme, and has too many colors. The green, lime and gray are fine. White curtains in place of the gold ones would help and large doses of white accessories. When you get a chance discard the maroon rug, get green.

Q.—My living room will have medium gray walls. I plan to buy darker gray carpet, wall-to-wall. Sofa and matching chair are red with black and white flecks. What color draperies should I use for medium sized windows? Furniture is all blond wood and adjoining dining room furniture is also blond with red seat covers. What would you use for curtains, and how would you place

Rude Guest May Prove A Weekend Pest

IF YOU WANT to be a popular weekend guest, give a little of yourself to the hostess. School friends are likely to invite you to their home for weekends or school vacations. And young people are likely to forget that there are older people in the home. The same rules of courtesy that should apply in your own home come into play anywhere. The trouble is young people forget their manners at home, and when they are visiting are likely to antagonize the mother of their friends. Here are some questions to test your Visit Quotient:

HOW DO YOU GREET YOUR HOSTESS? Do you act like you are happy you accepted the invitation or do you sink into the house shyly behind your school friend, mumble something unintelligible and sink to the room you have been given?

ABOUT MEALS: Do you offer to lend a hand in the kitchen? Set the table? Help to remove dishes from the table? Help with dish washing? Drying?

EVENING AT HOME: Do you ask whether the family objects to loud record playing at bedtime? Do you retire from the living room without explaining that you are going to your room. Do you offer to help with service if there are other guests and you have been invited to join them after dinner.

EVENING OUT: If you go out on a date (and you shouldn't, unless your school chum hostess is invited also) do you get home at the hour that is agreeable to your friend and her mother, or do you try to persuade your friend to make it later, or do you tell her mother that you are permitted later hours. You should abide by the rules in the household.

BATHROOM MANNERS: Even if you have a bath to yourself, don't dawdle or clutter it up with your beauty preparations. Remove hair from your comb and dispose of it. If powder spills on the sink remove it as soon as possible. Keep the top on the tube of toothpaste, especially if you are sharing the bathroom. Little nuisances add up.

WHAT TO BRING: It's a good idea not to arrive with a truckload of gear and garments. A small house may not have closet room for all those extras, especially if you are spending a couple of weeks. Check with your friend and find out what kind of clothes they will be wearing, how many date dresses to bring, whether you should bring other equipment such as skis, ice skates.

Registrar Rights Are Discussed

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Atty. Gen. Jack Gremlion of Louisiana said Friday the U.S. Civil Rights Commission, during its attempt at a vote probe in Shreveport last year, ignored the civil rights of Louisiana vote registrars. The New Orleans States-Item, in a dispatch from Washington, reported Gremlion preparing his arguments before the Supreme Court Monday. The commission is appealing a three-judge federal court decision which blocked its probe on grounds the 13 parish registrars from northwest Louisiana parishes involved were denied rights to counsel, to confront their accusers and to know the charges against them.

A commission spokesman has said the case is critical since a decision against it would stop it from any further voting investigations. Gremlion said the commission not only exceeded its investigative power under the civil rights act of 1957, but also failed to supply him with necessary information even though he is, under state law, attorney for the parish registrars. The commission, he said, "in reality had become an accusatory body" and "assumed the nature of a grand jury."

SCHOOL PROBLEM NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP)—School officials had to pay storage on desks which arrived ahead of completion of a new school here. At the same time temporary chairs had to be used in another new school. Desks for the incomplete building couldn't be diverted to the other school because they were too small for the age groups there.

KATHY TALTON
Named 'Miss Chacahoula'

Kathy Ann Talton, 19-year-old coed from Monroe, has been named top-ranking beauty of the 1960 Chacahoula, Northeast Louisiana State College's yearbook.

Miss Talton's victory in a campus wide election for "Miss Chacahoula" was announced Friday by Jackie Tharpe and Brenda Gambrell, co-editors of the annual.

This is Miss Talton's second major title at the college. In October, she was named queen of Homecoming. Last year she was a Chacahoula beauty. Four beauties, six runners-up and class favorites were also named in the school election.

BEAUTIES The beauties are Ann Edwards of Monroe; Linda Lavender, West Monroe; Margaret Green and Patsy Price, both of Ferriday. The runners-up are Sandra Edwards, Frances Jones and Carol Shipp, of Monroe; Louise Bingham, Clayton; Jean Stark, Bastrop; and Wanda Stevenson, Rayville.

Watch Your Child At Play And You'll Learn

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRID

The word play means, to most parents, an activity with no particular meaning except enjoyment. Adults play when they aren't working. Children play all the time because they are not deeply concerned with work.

But play has aspects not visible to the unknowing eye. It can, in certain circumstances, be a therapeutic agent. It can help the child get rid of fears, anxieties and hostilities which otherwise might harass him.

A dozen times a day, as we well know, the parent is called upon to correct a child's behavior. She tells him what to do, what he can't do, or how to do what he is doing. If he has learned he must obey, he does so, but this may not erase the angry emotions which arise when he is thwarted. He feels mean toward the parent. He'd like to do something to her.

SLAPS OR HITS When he is small he has no words with which to express his emotions. So he slaps at the parent, or hits her with a toy or, having these, throws himself on the floor in a tantrum. When he is older he says, "I hate you. You're an old meanie, you never let me do anything."

The result of such an emotional upheaval is guilt. The child knows he has misbehaved. He knows he deserves punishment. Sometimes, after a punishment, his guilt evaporates. He has paid for his misconduct.

spank them, make them toe the mark and get rid of emotions which otherwise might get him in trouble with Mommy.

ELIMINATES ANXIETIES If he has fears or anxieties, he can work them out by creating play situations in which he becomes the master. If it is animals he fears, a play lion or tiger can be made to cower before him while he calls the turns. No animal can seem terrifying to him, if he has the upperhand in play.

To watch a child at play may help the mother to understand whether or not he is harboring hostilities, (always being destructive and mean in his play) or fears, or guilt. Play is one method used in guidance clinics to help the psychiatrists uncover what is causing the child's unusual behavior.

A clever mother, by noting how her child acts in play, can sometimes determine the sore spots and act to soothe and heal them. Yes, play can be lots more than just a way to keep a child out from under foot.

DEAR ABBY

Children Should Equally Care For Aged Parents

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Who is responsible for the care of a widowed mother? Three of her children are married and have families of their own. The remaining daughter, who is in her early forties, is single, has a good job and a nice nest egg in the bank. She feels that we should all pitch in equally and support Mother.

We married children have families to raise and educate and mortgages to pay off. The single daughter has an apartment full of beautiful furniture, is debt-free and has no one to worry about but herself. We think it is her place to take care of Mother. Are we wrong?

THE OTHER THREE
DEAR THREE: Think again. The responsibility of caring for aged parents should be shared EQUALLY by all the children. Because your sister saved her money and chose to remain single and debt-free is no reason why she should assume a greater share of the responsibility. It's too bad that children must quarrel about meeting an obligation which should be a privilege.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please advise me on how to cope with a very embarrassing situation that has faced me for years?

When I am with people who don't know much about me, someone will make a very nasty remark about my race or nationality. They don't mean it as an insult to me because they don't know that I am on that race. I would like to speak up, but what could I say and still remain friends? HURT

DEAR HURT: What a magnificent opportunity for you to point out the stupidity and ignorance of people who make sweeping generalizations about races or nationalities. Simply announce that you are of that race. And why would you want to remain friends with people like that?

DEAR ABBY: I am in high school. My parents set a curfew hour at midnight on date nights, except for special occasions like the prom. Some of my girl friends stay out until the wee hours of the morning. They think I have strange ideas because I'd rather be home safely in bed than necking up a storm in a parked car somewhere.

Abby, did my mother raise me too strict? Don't you think boys respect you more when you say good night early?

OLD-FASHIONED GIRL
DEAR GIRL: You are the answer to many a boy's dream. Hang on to those high standards and you'll never regret it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO FRITZ: I once heard of a college president who TOLD a coach (who was, at the time, turning out a winning team) that he could have his job as long as he lived. Then the team lost three games in a row. The president called the coach in, pronounced him a dead one, and fired him. Moral: "Get it in writing".

Have you read Abby's new, best-selling book, "DEAR TEEN-AGER"?

Revolution In Italian Kitchens

ROME (AP) — Italy has had a revolution — in the kitchen.

This should come as no surprise to anyone who has ever seen an Italian espresso coffee maker. Sooner or later Italians were bound to become gadget-happy.

Roman housewives have become enthusiasts for American (or American inspired) can-openers, vegetable peelers, slicers and dicers with a passion they formerly reserved for Rossano Brazzi (Italy's Clark Gable.)

That's the way it began. It has gone on to include everything else — electric beaters, mixers, washing machines, and even an occasional dishwasher tossed into an occasional palazzo.

The Italians have also put out some rather tricky gadgets of their own: coffee grinders, espresso machines (big and little ones) and garlic crushers, have been joined by a new pasta maker which rolls and cuts pasta into any shape you want — spaghetti, ravioli, fettuccine, and even a flying saucer number.

Because electricity and gas still cost so much to install and use in Italy, few Italian families can afford to fully Americanize their kitchens. But more and more Roman households now have a big shiny refrigerator, an American type stove with glass-paned oven, a can-stacked

Kishi Departs
Behind Schedule

TOKYO. (UPI) — Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi departed for Washington Saturday after nine minutes behind schedule after police battled 500 demonstrating leftist students at the airport and kept some 3,000 more in check outside the field.

The prime minister used a back entrance to the airport to slip past the mob of fanatic students who had vowed to stop him even at the cost of their lives. His chartered Japan Air Lines plane took off at 8:09 a.m. (6:09 p.m., e.s.t., Friday).

Two hours earlier 2,000 police fought with and ejected 500 students who broke through security lines in an effort to halt or delay the departure. The students, all extreme leftists, were protesting against Kishi's scheduled signing of the new U.S.-Japan Security Treaty.

The students are members of the ultra-leftist National Federation of Students' Self-government Association (Zenkakuren). Their leaders are so radical they were expelled from the Japan Communist Party.

The group of 500 that sneaked into the airport fought with police for an hour and wrecked the interior of the airport's showplace restaurant. Police ejected them, but some 3,000 others massed in the cold rain about a mile and a half from the airport.

Several hundred more milled about between two small bridges close to the airport's entrance. They apparently had stayed all night at inns or private homes in the area.

But Kishi fooled the mob by using a little known back entrance.

The procession from Kishi's home to the airport was one of the most heavily guarded in recent memory. There were 15 motorcycle escorts and about a dozen trucks loaded with police. Not even Emperor Hirohito uses such a guard on his travels in the country.

Kishi arrived at the airport on schedule and rushed down the line of foreign diplomats who had gathered to say goodbye, then hurriedly entered the chartered plane.

By that time there were no leftist students inside the terminal and the spectacular camp, normally crowded with thousands of airport visitors, was closed.

Four rightist students carrying banners supporting Kishi marched up to the plane under the disinterested eyes of police on shore, "banzai" as the premier entered the plane.

The prime minister's back way arrival left the Zenkakuren students standing helplessly in the rain. The Zenkakuren follow the Russian and Red Chinese Communist line and have been objecting loudly to the new treaty on the grounds it will entangle Japan in U.S. imperialistic military adventures.

Actually the treaty gives Japan virtual veto power over the use of American military forces based in Japan.

Neville Band
To Present
Don Jacoby

Neville High School's concert band will present Don Jacoby, at a concert Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Neville auditorium.

The concert is the highlight of a day-long musical activity which will begin with a clinic at 9 a.m. in the auditorium. Tickets are now on sale at the school and at Dew Music store.

Other items on the agenda include a luncheon for visiting band directors, hosted by a local music store, and an afternoon rehearsal of the Neville band and Jacoby, with visiting band directors in attendance.

FEATURES
The concert features Jacoby in several special trumpet numbers, accompanied by the Neville band. The band will also round out the program with musical arrangements played by its own artists. Herbert Gathright, director of the band, was instrumental in bringing Jacoby to Monroe.

Two of Jacoby's renditions were written especially for him. They are "Dramatic Essay For Trumpet" by Clifton Williams and "Ode for Trumpet" by Alfred Reed.

As first trumpet with the CBS - Chicago Studios, Jacoby is extremely happy providing background for those in the limelight. "Studio work is one of the most satisfying jobs a musician can hold," he says. "It demands good performances on all kinds of music, from modern jazz to the most intricate traditional numbers. When practically every day at the studio is a challenge, you can't help being happy."

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

BROADWAY BULLETIN BOARD
JEAN SEBERG, who became famous in a twinkling when Otto Preminger selected her to star in his Joan of Arc film, has received what might be a significant visit from her French husband, Francois Moreuil. Friends believe the pair agreed on arrangements for a legal parting. At any rate lawyer Moreuil returned to Paris alone. . . . The Shah of Iran and his bride will wind up their honeymoon in the United States with an official call on President Eisenhower. Ike and the Shah discussed plans in Teheran before the wedding. . . . The strip joints on 32d St. are being kept under constant surveillance by the police as the result of complaints by chaps who consider they were "taken."

... Miles Davis, headlining the Big Jazz Show at the Apollo starting Jan. 15, will get $7,000 for the week. . . . It's now definite that Audrey Hepburn and Mel Ferrer will return to the U.S. in March — or before — so their baby will be born here with no complications if he later should decide to become President. . . . Dinah Washington's lingering throat ailment is causing her great concern. She may cancel a month of bookings to give her voice a complete rest.

MARLON BRANDO IS LIVING dangerously — or at the very least courting unpleasant headlines. One of his newest interests is pretty but has rather a frightening record. . . . Woody Herman has signed a girl singer and formed a bouncy new combo for a nightclub tour. He and the thrush are working out song and comedy routines similar to the Louis Prima-Keely Smith act. (This department would be happy to offer suggestions, such as cut out the dirty gestures.) . . . Guessing game: the wealthy brother-in-law of a couple of show business cuties drowns his sorrows on weekdays and "dries out" over the weekend. The marriage isn't apt to last long. . . . Gig Young gave a luxurious mink coat to Elizabeth Montgomery to celebrate their third wedding anniversary. . . . Elaine Stewart vows that her interest in Bill Carter doesn't go beyond their real estate deals.

SOME USUALLY astute politicians predict Gov. Rockefeller will come out for Richard Nixon in a dramatic statement before convention time. . . . Artie Shaw will do some composing and arranging while he's here. He's currently toiling on a piece to feature the musical talents of Lee Konitz. . . . Harlem is mystified over the disappearance of former newspaperwoman Betty Granger and her new husband, Wedell Reid. When last heard from, they had just left Kingston, Jamaica. No word since.

The latest preview audience watching "Dog of Flanders" at the 20th-Century-Fox studios almost drowned in tears. Handkerchiefs came out like a chorus of white flags, eyes were dabbed, snuffles could be heard, and men as well as women seemed to have a wonderful time weeping. Everyone raved about the photography (all done in Antwerp) and the warm, sensitive performance of David Ladd, 12-year-old son of Alan Ladd.

CARY GRANT is apt to give up California as a place of residence except when he has to go out there to make a picture. Health reasons, chiefly. . . . Theolious Monk appeared before the ABC board the other day in an attempt to regain his cabaret card, but doesn't know the answer yet. . . . Jo-Ann Campbell was Bobby Darin's one-and-only last Summer, but now he's dating other girls. . . . If the Latin Quarter cuties frequently turn

FASHION REPORT

New Bathing Suits Will Barely Be

NEW YORK (AP)—Swimsuits of the new decade will be barely there, according to the prophecy of Jantzen, which showed a collection of bold or bashful Bikinis at a breakfast show Friday.

The rash of private swimming pools throughout the country has brought about a Bikini boom, say up at the Fundador, the Spanish eating-place on W. 47th, it's not entirely because the restaurant is convenient. It's also a rendezvous for the Latin-American airline pilots, and they're utterly darling. . . . Larry Kert, back in Manhattan after a couple of years as the juvenile lead in "West Side Story," is being sought for the star part in "Bye Bye Birdie." He'd play a rock 'n' roll singer rather closely patterned after Elvis Presley.

SOME OF THE DISC JOCKEYS are playing a record titled "The Monkey and the Bumble Bee." Tin Pan Alley legend has it that the platter was made as a joke; an executive of the recording company bet that the public would buy anything, including a monkey grunting, and he's in the process of proving his point. . . . Scandinavian newspapers are giving a page one play to the Finch-Tregoff murder case because of pretty Marie Ann Lindholm, the Finch maid who took the stand as a witness for the prosecution. . . . Stanley Holloway, who delighted audiences in "My Fair Lady," will star on an album of nonsense songs for tots — "The Elephant Alphabet" — to be released by Riverside this month. . . . Billy Reed is joining the ranks of night club owners who've decided to install portable television sets in their restaurants. He'll have the video machines available at the Little Club for any patron who wants to watch a favorite show while dining.

the designers. Even a modest girl doesn't mind bare minimums in the privacy of her own back yard. The new swimsuits are dramatic enough even to wake up 235 sleepy fashion editors, facing the final day of a hectic week of New York couture shows.

A highlight is the "after dive" group of evening swimsuits—that's right. A new facet of the American social scene is: "Come over for supper and a swim." And the correct outfit for it is a figure-molding black stretch nylon swimsuit with sheer black yoke and a sheer nylon tricot skirt which goes to dinner, comes off for the swim.

Herbert Sondheim shows no swimsuits, but makes news with his "all-together" theme, featuring street-length coats over coordinated slim dresses. One such is a white raw silk loose coat over a black-and-white silk print slender dress.

Robert Knox, designer for Ben Gershel, shows a distinguished collection of suits and coats, stressing short sleeves and wide shoulders.

An effective example is a navy worsted suit with slender skirt and sleeveless short jacket, over a white silk dotted blouse with huge elbow-length puffed sleeves. David Gottlieb scores, as usual, with his flattering and feminine jeweled chiffon dresses for evening wear, shown in both short and long versions. Strictly for upper-bracket budgets are the sophisticated, luxurious clothes of the Samuel Winston collection, designed by Roxane. Suits, costumes and dresses of this group have a new free-and-easy look. Jackets usually come just below the waist and, although slightly shaped, barely touch the figure. They are worn over slender matching one-piece dresses, sometimes with contrasting blouse tops. Fabulous fabrics and a look of luxury characterize this collection, frankly designed for women who can afford it.
